PROTECTIVE LEAGUE NOW ORGANIZED

New Directors of C. of C. Join Anti-annexation Body as Individuals

FORM CAMPAIGN FORCE

Volunteer Workers and Information Is Called for by Committee

Members of the executive committee of the Home Protective League to the number of about thirty met at the Chamber of Commerce to organize for work in the anti-annexation campaign to which they are pledged, the list of those present including Judge F. H. Lowe, Bert Woodard, H. A. Harrison, E. U. Emery, Owen Emery, Harry James, C. D. Gulick, William Griffin, H. M. Butts, G. H. King, A. T. Cowan, W. C. Page, William P. Trice, Dr. R. E. Chase, Dr. Jessie Russell, Miss Eva Daniels, Mrs. Mabel Tight, C. C. Cooper, R. E. Johnson, Col. James W. Evenington, Charles Guthrie, Dr. William C. Mabry, F. E. Beyea, W. H. Hollenbeck, A. L. Baird, C. A. Rudel, W. S. Perrin.

At 7:30 when the chairman, Attorney Owen Emery had not arrived, Judge Lowe, one of the vice chairmen, called the meeting to order and the minutes of the previous session together with the names of the executive committee were read by Secretary Gulick. At the request of Judge Lowe, Dr. Russell took the chair and called upon various members present for suggestions relative to campaign work, Mr. Guthrie, Dr. Mabry, Mrs. Tight and others expressing themselves in regard to procedure for securing campaign material and disseminating it.

On motion of H. M. Butts that a campaign committeee chairman be chosen with power to select his associates, V. M. Hollister was elected and later named as other members of his committee, Bert Woodard, A. L. Baird, Mrs. Mabel Tight, Dr. Jessie Russell and Charles Rudell. It was agreed that details of the campaign and the appointment of sub committees should be left to the campaign committee which called for volunteer workers and information relative to campaign materials.

The balance of the evening was given to general discussion related to the work in hand, and the secretary was asked to note in his minutes the fact that leading civic bodies in the city including the Merchants' Credit Association, Glendale Realty Board, Rotary Club, Glendale Advancement Association, and Kiwanis Club, had gone on record as opposed to annexation, and the question was raised concerning the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce. As the newly elected board of directors was meeting in an adjoining room, a committee was appointed to interview them, the committee subsequently reporting that the board had agreed to take the matter under advisement after completing its organization.

Later chamber board members joined the meeting and enrolled as association members and contributors to the campaign fund, as follows: Jesse Smith, who had just been elected president of the chamber; Peter Ferry, Earl Pendroy, P. J. Hayselden, Roy Kent, A. R. Eastman, W. E. Hewitt, C. D. Lusby, David Gregg, R. F. Kitterman, George Bentley, and Lloyd Wilson who had just been appointed a member by the board. Speeches were made by several of the directors, President Jesse Smith leading off by reminding the committee that he had gone on record by allowing his name to be published as that of an anti-annexationist, and he was glad to reiterate that he was unalterably opposed to absorption by Los Angeles. Peter Ferry, George Bentley, C. D. Lusby, R. F. Kitterman, W. E. Hewitt, Earl Pendroy and P. J. Hayselden, spoke in the same vein and when a vote was taken on a motion offered by Dr. Russell, "That this body go on record as indorsing this organization and pledge our co-operation individually and collectively to the furtherance of the work of this organization," the vote was unanimous. Harry James, treasurer, then got busy collecting subscriptions to the campaign fund, and those present adjourned except members of the campaign committee headed by Mr. Hollister who held an executive session.

CAT SHOW SUCCEEDS

Officers of the Glendale Cat Club are much pleased with Glendale's patronage of their recent show. They had previously accumulated a fund to finance it, but the returns were such as to leave the fund untouched to serve as the nucleus of another budget for an exhibit.

Warren Files New Evidence of His Swappering Blood

Warren, the champion swapper, is certainly taking in a lot of territory. Let's hope he doesn't get what Pat received when he became too ambitious and took too great a radius of operations. He has land in Cuba, where the sugar cane grows; in North Dakota, where they raise the finest kind of grain; in British Columbia, where there is the finest fishing in the world, and in many other parts of the globe and the United States. He has a dandy lot of swaps in Glendale. In fact, he has such a big list of swaps that the swap bug would go black in the face with envy if he would just glance over it. He's sure a swap shark.

Here comes a swap from Richmond, Calif. The owner of the Richmond studio, wants to come to Glendale. He has been bitten at last. Everybody everywhere wants to come here, and the question is, where has the owner of this property been all the time. He has a studio building, with residence and everything for $8,000. He wants property in or near Glendale—the nearer the better.

Here's a man at Glendale 871-J who wants to swap his 5-room home, everything modern, bath tub and all, up near the foothills with a mighty fine view. It looks like Mr. 871-J doesn't know when he is well off. He's right up where the birdies sing, in the frostless belt, and where life's worth living. But he says he wants a car. He's probably got the automobile bug—people do get that way, you know. He could use a vacant lot.

And to finish up the swapping in royal style, Mr. R. W. Dick enters with a lot in Boulevard Manor to swap for anything he can use. Mr. Frohock has a new subdivision, with thirty-eight lots, half sold, houses and everything for Glendale city flat or income. L. T. Drake wants a cash register for a 1917 Ford speedster. Mr. Drake wants to ring up the money he has saved on the economical operations of this four-wheeled gas buggy.

GLENDALE ELKS DEDICATE FLAG AT REDLANDS

110 Members Make Journey in Two Cars Through P. E. Courtesy

The trip to Redlands made by officers and members of the Glendale Elks' lodge Wednesday afternoon, was a big affair, the delegation numbering 110 men, who made the journey in two of the San Bernardino cars placed at the disposal of the lodge by the Pacific Electric railway. They left here at 3 p. m. and left Redlands for home Thanksgiving morning at 1:15.

They went for the purpose of dedicating the new flag of the Redlands lodge and initiating a class of 12 members. A royal welcome was given them and they were entertained with a wonderful dinner at the Elks' clubhouse. Besides the work of the evening, Glendale Elks furnished a musical program which included a band concert by the 27 members of the Elks' band who accompanied the officers, also jazz orchestral numbers by members of the band, saxaphone solos by Herbert Henning and "Bill" Bode and two vocal selections by Mr. Leake. Redlands' lodge is expected to return the visit soon after the first of the year.

SERVICE CAPTAINS SELECTED

Four Temporary Leaders Appointed at Community Meeting

TO PICK THEIR TEAMS

Representatives of Twenty Organizations Gather at High Gym

At the regular meeting of volunteer leaders for social and physical recreation in connection with Glendale Community Service held Friday night in the girls' old gymnasium of Glendale Union high school four temporary team captains were selected, including Mrs. St. Clair Whytock, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, O. E. McDowell and R. B. Coeur. It is the plan to have these four captains select their teams and about once a month have the entire group come together for an evening of play, exchange of ideas and presentation of new material after Miss Roberta Winans, National Community Service director of recreation, closes her institute in Glendale next week.

Representatives from twenty organizations were present last night, including Richardson D. White, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, R. B. Coeur, Mrs. St. Clair Whytock, Robert Whytock, Miss Ruth Getchel, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stafford of San Fernando, Mrs. H. H. Dryer, David Dryer, Mrs. Sarah Van Hise, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Langton, Mrs. Marie Gifford, Miss Corinne Orff, Charles C. Larson, Mrs. Jennie Hinthorne, Miss Roberta Winans and Don Orput.

CITY DADS HAVE PROFITABLE SESSION

G. B. Woodberry appeared before the board stating that, although it was understood that his property was to be eliminated from improvement district No. 6, he has been assessed in that district. The council members stated that they are willing to refund Mr. Woodberry's tax money if that can be done legally.

The protests against setting Orange and Milford aside as a first-class residential district were denied. The city attorney was instructed to prepare a resolution declaring Orange and Milford a high-class residential district.

Protests against the opening and widening of Pacific avenue, north of Broadway, were denied. The property owners on Pacific south of Broadway objected to helping to pay for the opening of that street with a Broadway. The argument was brought up that when Pacific is cut through, making it a street from one end of the city to the other, property facing on it will be far more valuable than it is as a dead-end street.

The protests against the hearing of a strip on Kenneth road were continued two weeks.

The city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance setting aside Louise, California to Lexington, as a first-class residential district.

The Galvin Players asked for a permission to conduct a theatrical show for one week on the corner of Harvard and Orange. Application was denied.

A letter from the American Legion, thanking the city council for its assitance in the Armistice day celebration, was received and filed.

The following ordinances were adopted:

An ordinance naming a portion of Gilbert street.

An ordinance extending the time for the filing of an action for the widening of Colorado street.

An ordinance providing for the issuance of $23,000 bonds, Municipal Improvement District No. 7.

An ordinance regulating acceptance of land for street purposes.

An amendment to section 10, ordinance 445, which has to do with garbage collection.

An ordinance acclaiming certain streets to be boulevards and prohibiting heavy traffic thereon.

An ordinance repealing surcharge of 35 cents on electric meters.

An ordinance establishing certain commercial districts.

An ordinance amending the salary ordinance, which increases the salary of patrolmen to $130 per month for the first and second years of service.

The following resolutions were adopted:

A resolution ordering work for vacation of 7-foot strip on Kenneth road.

A resolution of intention to improve Carr drive, School street and Harvard street.

A resolution adopting map, plans, profiles and diabrams in the office of the city engineer.

The following new ordinances were introduced:

An ordinance ordering the opening and widening of Raymond avenue.

An ordinance ordering the opening and widening of Pacific avenue.

An ordinance establishing the grade on Gilbert street, Pacific to the city limits.

A notice was issued calling for a certain quantity of cast iron pipe and fttings.

Bids were opened for the improvement of electric lights on Isabel street. Referred to city engineer.

Permission was granted to V. Martinussen to sell milk in the city of Glendale.

Maps of tracts 5353 and 5864 were accepted.

F. H. Hatfield, operator of an auto camp ground on San Fernando road, was ordered to appear before the city council to show why his license should not be revoked. It is claimed that Hatfield has violated the provisions of his contract with the city.

An ordinance was offered extending the time for filing condemnation proceedings on Hawthorne and Ivy streets.

PROCLAMATION

Education Week Proclaimed by Mayor

American Education Week was first initiated by the American Legion in 1921. This year again the American Legion in connection with the United States Bureau of Education and the National Education Association, are calling upon the people of the nation to observe American Education Week.

The purposes of this great educational movement are to create a deeper and more universal interest in education, to remove illiteracy, to promote physical education and health srevice, to secure an equalization of educational opportunities throughout the United States, to Americanize the foreign born, inspire patriotism and, above all, to pave the way for a higher type of Americanism.

It has been said that "The difficulties of Democracy are the opportunities of Education." This statement fully expresses the program outlined for American Education Week. The American Legion and the organizations cooperating with it in this movement have dedicated themselves to the task of educating the youth of the country, to serious effort towards a solution of democracy's difficulties—a serious effort springing from that deepest of patriotism that was expressed by the sacrifices rendered for democracy's sake in the time of war, a patriotism that must find its greatest strength in day to day continuous service of peace time. They have dedicated themselves to the task of making America truly American, to making good citizens of all our aliens, to educating the American public to the dangers and evils of that radicalism that seeks to undermine and destroy our government, to building Americans for the future, a future of greatness she is destined to attain through the loyalty, idealism and the practical, unselfish service of us all.

You will find every day of education week devoted in some big, worth-while, lasting way to this educational program. On you, fellow citizens, depends the question of how long it must be before these purposes are realized. It is for you to determine how long it shall be before we shall dwell together as a people, united in thought, sympathies and community of purpose—one flag—one speech—one ideal of government.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Spencer Robinson, Mayor fo the City of Glendale, designate the week of December 3rd to 9th for the observance of American Education Week, in the city, and earnestly recommend that every citizen of Glendale cooperate with the local post of the American Legion and the school authorities in furthering the cause of education.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand, this 2nd day of December, 1922.

SPENCER ROBINSON,
Mayor of the City of Glendale.

$6,000,000 BUILDING IN 1922 NEARS

Only $68,925 Remains to Complete Record Year of Construction

$5,931,075 UP TO DATE

Predicted Total Will Be Nearly Half Million in Excess of Amount

In order to reach the $6,000,000 building permit mark for the year 1922 Glendale has but $68,925 to go. Early this year the Glendale Press predicted that the permits taken out this year would pass the six million mark. They will do better than that. It was predicted by the building department of the city this morning that the permits will total more than $6,500,000, for the year, which is "going some" for this city. Glendale will probably retain its title of "the fastest growing city in America." The building permits for 1921 totaled $5,099,201, or $831,874 less than have already been taken out this year.

This is the biggest year Glendale has ever known so far as building is concerned. In this building activity all sections of the city are represented. A pleasing feature is that the residential part of the city has kept pace in building with the business section, showing that the growth has been strictly normal.

Membership in the organization will be received at the meeting.

LEGION DANCE IS CALLING TONIGHT

Rain should not keep any loyal Glendalian who enjoys the dance from the party that is being given tonight by the Glendale Post, American Legion, in their legion hall, to secure its contribution to the community Christmas tree and celebration, which was started by the Kiwanis club and which is being supported by all the civic organizations of the city. It will be a good dance with the best of music to inspire tripping feet, and it has the best possible cause.

The proposition to enter a Glendale float in the Pasadena Tournament of Roses was also considered and the secretary was instructed to write letters to all the local organizations asking them to contribute their proportion of a $250 fund for the purpose, the chamber having already voted $250 and the City Council having given a like sum.

EXCHANGE CLUB HONORS BIRD OF THANKSGIVING

The members of the Exchange Club of Glendale with their wives gathered together last Wednesday to do honor to the national bird, the turkey. The fact that the ladies were present really established a precedent in the history of this club. Heretofore only the sterner sex were allowed to participate in the festivities. Now, however, the "Exchangettes" as the "appendages" of the members are known, will be invited to attend every fourth meeting of the club.

The usual business matters were quickly disposed of and then the fun began. A very delightful program was presented including the following numbers: Piano solo, Miss Alma Geiger; two vocal solos, Miss Flora Kilpatrick; vocal numbers, Mrs. Irving H. Fallis; Hawaiian guitar solos, Miss Ruth Edith Lane.

Mr. D. Goldman won the attendance prize, a real, live duck. Of course the duck had to be named. Accordingly a committee composed of three of the "Exchangettes" was appointed to select the most appropriate name suggested. After much deliberation it was decided that Captain Jackson's suggestion be adopted and that the duck be hereafter known as "Anti-Annex," a very kindly name to be sure.

Mr. Claire Anspach gave a talk to the fairer sex. A very lovely fruit cake, presented to the club by Hazen J. Titus of the Hazen J. Titus Fruit Cake company, was cut and generous portions given to those present.

CONFERENCE WITH COUNTY SCHOOL HEAD SUCCEEDS

The committee appointed by the conference of high school trustees and members of the Glendale board of education to visit the offices of County Superintendent Mark Keppel and Assistant County Counsel Jerry Powell, executed their commission Friday afternoon and report very satisfactory interviews, the substance of which will be reported to a second conference of the same school officials next Tuesday night. The committee was composed of David Hibben, president of the board of education; Captain T. D. Watson, president of the high school trustees; H. W. Yarick, Principal George U. Moyse and Supt. Richardson D. White.

ELKS TO MOURN THEIR DEPARTED

All Glendale is invited to participate and enjoy the fine musical program and the address by Rev. C. M. Calderwood. The use of the theatre has been donated by Manager William A. Howe, a life member of Pasadena Lodge No. 672.

FINAL SONG SERVICE BY CHILDREN

Little Folk Give Stirring Program at Central Christian Church

A FINE PERFORMANCE

They Sing and Act the Numbers Faultlessly and with Spirit

By O. L. KILBORN

The gently falling rain last night could not damp the ardor of intending participants in the revival meeting at Central Christian church. And all who attended were richly repaid for the sacrifice, if such it was.

The little folks were at their best and went through the stirring program faultlessly. Two numbers were of particular note. One was the paraphrase of "Red, White and Blue," with all the singers pointing to the flag as the chorus was sung. The other was a "Shine Song" for which all the lights were turned off except those in front, during the singing of the verses, then all of them for the chorus, which was made weirdly beautiful by the sparkling rays of flashlights turned on and off. The song, "Yes, Jesus Loves Me," was sung in Turkish and the Chinese and Japanese rendering of hymns, given in the two previous Friday night programs, repeated.

The Conners repeated two song numbers, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," and "The Old Rugged Cross," while Mrs. Nern, also by special request, gave again the touching pianologue, "Daddy."

Rev. Cole's bottle sermon was all that could have been expected. On a large table just beneath the pulpit were scores of bottles, possibly a hundred or more, from the tiny half-ounce vial to the 5-gallon demijohn. From this array the speaker selected certain groups to represent certain classes of people: The shallow, the frivolous, the conceited, the prejudiced, those who like the sermon that hits the other fellow, the ones who attend only during revival meetings, those who hear, but do not heed, and other varieties. Then finally was shown the faithful man who attends always when he can, heeds the sermons and applies them to his own life, is fruitful in good deeds and whose faith is founded on the rock. There was wit and satire, as well as deep feeling throughout the sermon, yet withal a deep note of tenderness for the man out of God and a yearning hope that he might be reached by the gospel.

Tomorrow will be the final meetings of the revival and they are to be great occasions. The topics, "Will God Laugh at Us?" and "Five Things a Man Cannot Do," give promise of two wonderful sermons and the auditorium and galleries should be crowded at both services. The Bible school opens promptly at 9:30 and morning worship at 10:30. It is hoped that the day's great meetings will be fruitful in results.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Sunday generally fair. Light frost in the interior in early morning in exposed places.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday.

THE LEGION BUILDING PLAN ENDS

Glendale Post Decides It Is Inadvisable to Proceed Further with Project

NOMINATES OFFICERS

Summons All Legionnaires to Attend Big Charity Ball Tonight

The regular meeting of the Glendale post, American Legion, was one of the largest gatherings of members the post has ever held and also one of the most enthusiastic. The fact that the administration committee was to give a report of accomplishments along the line of the new Legion building plans, was largely responsible for the turnout. After considerable discussion the post voted that it would not be advisable to go any further with present plans at this time.

Nominations for officers for the coming year were made as follows:

Post commander: Comrades Day, Frug and Sullivan.

First vice commander: Comrades Flower, Simon and Frug.

Second vice commander: Comrades Edwards, Kaemmerling, Packer and Black.

Adjutant: Comrades Whelon, Sullivan, McClish, Anspaugh and Nagel.

Treasurer: Comrades Prussing, Warner and Gibbs.

Sergeant at Arms: Comrades Crist, Delgardo and Smith.

Historian: Comrades Calderwood, McBryde, Kaemmerling, Hayward, Day, Plume, Kiefer and Barron.

Trustees: Comrades Anspaugh, Whelon, Jones, Kiefer, Morrow Plume and Remmen.

Delegates to interpost convention: Comrades Stephenson, McBryde, Watson, Mabry, Sullivan, Gibbs and Frug.

Under the call for committee reports, Comrade Delgardo reported for the Sick and Relief committee.

Comrade Whelon reported for the basket ball committee, stating that the post had entered a team in the Interpost league and that Glendale's first game would be played December 7 with Pomona at Pomona.

Comrade Schwitters reported for the committee on National Educational Week, as did also Comrade Wix.

Comrade Kelley made an announcement regarding the charity ball to be given by the post tonight at the Legion hall, the proceeds to be given to the Community Service Christmas tree fund. He also announced that quite a group of entertainers would be present at the next meeting, including Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard and Harry James.

Comrade W. C. Mabry, who had been named as spokesman for the administration committee reported in regard to building plans of the post stating it would be necessary to come to some definite understanding at once as the option on property of the Glendale sanitarium would expire January 1. To carry out the terms of that option it would be necessary to proceed to raise $70,000.

After considerable discussion pro and con a motion was made "that it be the sense of this body that the post go ahead with the proposition as recommended." When the motion was put to vote it lost by three votes. This left the building proposition in abeyance. The trustees were then instructed to surrender their option on the property.

ALONG AUTO ROW OF GLENDALE TOWN

What the Folks Are Doing and Selling on the Rubber Tired Boulevard

By W. L. TAYLOR

If you don't believe "Glendale's Automobile Row" can take care of every need of the automobilists in the way of supplies, high grade and popular priced cars, and even the used cars, selling so cheap just now, just take a few hours off one the days which hang heavy on your hands and make a tour of the district. We are prone to regard our "home town" as too "common place" and often do not really know what is going on in any particular industry or what can be had at the shops and show rooms. A little more investigation would often save us dollars as well as trouble and heartaches that come from tieing on to everything that has the semblance of a bargain.

I found the automobile business good and the shops veritable beehives of industry, and I inquired here and there why the reason for all this activity and was told that Glendale's automobile business was getting better every day, that hardly a day passes that dozens of new cars and scores of used cars are not sold and that also the repair business is picking up.

Smith Radiates Optimism

C. L. Smith, the ever optimistic and popular distributor of the Chevrolet, always has a story to tell that sounds good, and he radiates the spirit which builds towns into cities and keeps the wheels of industry moving at a rapid pace. Only a few days ago he issued a warning to the city dads that he must have the streets in close proximity to his new quarters on Orange and Colorado widened, for a trainload of Chevrolets were on their way here, and that the demand for this car was so brisk that it would be necessary to rope off the streets to prevent a rush on his salesrooms when the machines were unloaded. But, really, "fellows," Smith is selling 'em, and he has a car that is certainly a hummer. A few days ago he met a man on the desert who was headed in the direction of Barstow. This man was driving a Chevrolet and was also carrying about 1600 pounds in the machine. Mr. Smith was inquisitive, and he learned that this same machine had been doing this work for many years and that the cost of upkeep had been practically nothing. "The Chevrolet is good enough for me," said the stranger, and he went on his way whistling. The new models are beautiful and have the lines and finish of cars of the higher class. Drop around anytime and see the Chevrolet. You will learn something that will interest you if you talk to Mr. Smith.

Keaton Cords Good Just Now

These slippery days one feels much better when the tires are safe and the steering wheel is strong. No one knows this better than the one whose car is equipped with Keaton cords sold by the Jellison Motor company, 1006 South Brand. "Because life is valuable Keaton non-skid tires are invaluable," said Mr. Jellison, "and they are just as essential as your brakes. You can make no better investment just now than a set of Keaton non-skids." Mr. Jellison has tested these tires and his judgment and decision is certainly worth consideration. He recommends them because he knows they will do just what is claimed for them. They also have the wearing qualities as well as the life-saving qualities.

A New Garage

Fred Hill's new place is attracting much attention just now. It is so convenient for the business men that Fred may be forced to employ a clerk to check in and out the cars that come to his place daily. He fixes 'em up also while you wait, and is enjoying a big run of work just now.

Watch the Fords Go By

This used to be a common saying, and has hardly been modified except to emphasize it by adding "nearly every other car is a Ford." This is one of the reasons why Jesse Smith's place is a veritable beehive of activity. How many people he employs only the bookkeeper knows, and the number of cars he sells also runs up every day. The used car department has also received an impetus and a new manager is pushing this end of the big business. The supply and service department has also been given an impetus in the way of added men and carloads of supplies. Also the Fords dropped a speck a few days ago, and are $50 cheaper than they used to be. There is little possibility of another drop, as it is conceded the Ford has about reached rock bottom. Although you can never tell what is in the mind of Henry, the wizard whose mind seems to run different from most people.

Maxwells Are Moving

Lyman P. Clark, the popular Maxwell distributor, may have to enlarge his already commodious quarters and employ more help—all because the demand for Maxwells is increasing at an alarming rate. "They have found out the stuff is in the car," said Mr. Clark in eulogizing the good points of the Maxwell, "and we are selling more cars today than at any time." The late model Maxwells are worthy of careful study, and they are proving a most popular car among those who appreciate the best.

The Glendale Motor company also has many used cars for sale and is passing them on to the public at attractive prices.

Expert Mechanics Here

One thing is very noticeable lately in automobile row, and that is the appearance of the best mechanics to be found anywhere. "We are trying to hold the repair work in Glendale," said one live wire automobile man, "and I believe Glendale has more real mechanics now than at any time since automobiles were introduced here."

An Englishman was staying with a friend in Ireland, and, driving up from the station, asked how much the fare would be. "Oh, give him as much as you like," was the reply, "and he'll still ask for more. You can never satisfy a jarvey."

"I'll bet you a fiver I do!" said the other.

When they reached their destination he handed the driver a pound note, saying: "Keep the change."

The jarvey looked at it for a moment and then:

"Sure, now, your honor," he said, "'twould be an awful thing to break into a beautiful note like this for one pint of beer! Does your honor 'appen to have eightpence wid you?"

The Englishman paid the eightpence—and the fiver.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fox of 345 North Kenwood street entertained as their Thursday guests Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Woodsum and Howard Davis of Redlands, Dr. and Mrs. T. Donnell and S. T. Woodsum of Long Beach and Miss Alice Merritt of Glendale.

KENNETH ROAD PROPERTY TO BE ADVANCED

Glenview Acres in Middle of Section to Be Affected

"Everything points to an increase in the price of Kenneth road property within the near future," said W. L. Truitt, 812 South Brand boulevard, this morning. "During the past few weeks there has been a greatly increased demand for property in that exclusive northwest section. It seems that property buyers are awaking to the fact that the amount of land and the number of lots in that locality available is steadily diminishing and for this reason those who expect eventually to live up there are securing their building sites while there are still a few left."

Right in the middle of the lot buying activity on Kenneth road is the Glenview Acres tract, which is owned by Mr. Truitt. Since this subdivision was placed on the market the lots have sold rapidly and but a few of them still remain unsold. Some of these have been spoken for and the others will soon be disposed of, claims Mr. Truitt.

HENNES NOW WITH BOLEN-BOWLER FORCES

Mr. Edward Hennes, the well-known realtor, formerly located at 719 South Brand boulevard, has connected himself with the office of the Bolen-Bowler company, 200 East Broadway, in the capacity of sales manager. Mr. Hennes has had a wide and successful experience as a real estate broker in Glendale and there is perhaps no man better posted on values of Glendale property than he. Considering that his business has been located so far from the center of things, and the fact that he has made the wonderful success that he has in the past year or more speaks volumes in his favor.

Mr. Hennes stated that the impelling influence in making this connection was the opportunity to do vastly bigger things than he could do alone. The program of Bolen-Bowler Company for the year 1923 is set for great results and they are fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Hennes in carrying this program into effect.

The Bolen-Bowler company is a new firm made up of John L. Bolen, who formerly operated as the Bolen Realty Company on West roadway, and Mr. D. F. Bowler, who has for a number of years been closely associated with Senator Leslie E. Francis of Iowa in various enterprises of Senator Francis. Some time ago, after Senator Francis had purchased a one-half interest in the Sparr Heights acreage, he wired for Mr. Bowler to come on and become associated in the sale of that property. After coming to Glendale Mr. Bowler came in contact with Mr. Bolen and after some acquaintance they formed a combination to operate the branch office of Francis-Barnum-Walters Company in the sale of Sparr Heights property, and in addition decided to engage in the general real estate business under the firm name of Bolen-Bowler Company.

It is the purpose of the firm to deal in all branches of real estate and later engage in building operations and the handling of first and second mortgage paper on Glendale property.

COOPERATION IN SHOE SERVICE IS PLANNED

Local Association Offers to Save Money on All Sales and Repairs

Shoe repairing has taken a big drop. That is, provided you are a member of the Co-Operative Shoe and Service association, which is now being formed in Glendale, and which has headquarters at 312 East Broadway.

This statement on the face of it means little to the average person who has never given the shoe repair problem much thought. The association when completed will have a membership in the neighborhood of 5000, and every member will get 25 per cent off on shoe repairing and 10 per cent reduction on new shoes. The lowest price for half soling shoes with the best leather heretofore has been $1.25. If you are a member of the association—and it only costs you $2 to join—you can get your shoes half soled for $1.00, and save 25 cents on each pair. A family having a half dozen children would appreciate this saving. The association is being organized on a business basis, is under the control of the corporation commission of California, and bids fair to become one of the most important institutions in Glendale—and it may spread to nearby cities—for the principle upon which it is formed seems to be a move in the right direction.

The association will eventually take over the Baines Shoe Repair shop and probably the Broadway shoe store, both of which are located at 312 East Broadway. The reduced prices are in effect now, and already many people are taking advantage of the same by joining the association. All you have to do is to pay in your $2, and get your membership card, and you will be given the advantage of the reduced prices.

A half page advertisement in Wednesday's Glendale Daily Press gave full particulars, and more advertising will appear from time to time, setting forth the advantages of membership in the association.

Mrs. G. Mark of 1256 Boynton street entertained the Women's Foreign Missionary society of Central Avenue Methodist church on Friday afternoon. There was a splendid attendance despite the rainy weather.

Miss Lydia Kellar, a returned medical missionary from Nan Chang, China, spoke of her work there. Her home is here in Montrose and she is home now on a furlough. She has been superintendent of hospitals in Nan Chang for some time and her talk was greatly enjoyed.

At the close of the meeting, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Turkey dinners were numerous in Glendale the past two days, and even now the festive bird still holds the boards at the popular eating places in the city.

One of the most pleasant affairs of Thanksgiving was in the form of a family reunion given Thanksgiving day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lovell, 506 North Maryland. Twenty-four members of the Lovell family, including grandchildren, partook of an excellent dinner prepared by Mrs. Lovell and her daughters, Mrs. Luron Havens, Mrs. Clara Baker and Miss Alta J. At a previous meeting it was voted that Glendale W. C. T. U. would join the Los Angeles chapter, but the meeting yesterday reversed the vote and decided not to "annex."

Mr. Green was tender-hearted and asked what was the matter.

"Oh, he's just lazy!" said the man.

"Lazy!" said Mr. Green. "But laziness surely wouldn't make him cry like that!"

"Well, it does," said the man, "because that dog is sitting on a thistle and is too darned lazy to move!"

VAUDEVILLE AND "DON'T SHOOT" AT GLENDALE

Richardson Brothers & Cherie presenting "Two Fun Merchants and a Mack Sennett Girl" for which they carry a special set of scenery will be included on the big new vaudeville bill that is booked to open at the Glendale Theatre Saturday, December 2. This is a clever offering and one that has been a big success everywhere. abe Earle is described as "the girl with the quick feet." She is a dainty performer and a great favorite. Three beauties have a comedy called "A Shattered Romance." It is full of laughs and delightful material. Bae Pierre Brookhart & Co. present the celebrated "French-Indian Mentalist." This is one of the most amazing mind reading acts of its kind on the vaudeville stage. Brown and Wheeler entitle their contribution, "Fresh Paint," for which they carry special scenery.

No trouble was spared in the choice of settings for "Don't Shoot!" the Universal attraction, starring Herbert Rawlinson, which comes to the Glendale Theatre tonight.

Millionaires' mansions in ultra-wealthy Pasadena, California, were rented solely for extravagant interior scenes in the production at a rental amounting sometimes to an extravagant sum a day.

SUNDAY PROGRAM

A photoplay which has been heralded as one of the season's best is coming to Glendale Theatre December 3, 4 and 5. It is Metro's "The Five Dollar Baby," with the charming Viola Dana in the stellar role. Irvin S. Cobb wrote the story, which appeared some time ago in the Saturday Evening Post.

Miss Dana's newest characterization is that of a miss who has been adopted as a foundling by a pawnbroker, with whom she has been left. She appears in the play first as a tomboy of thirteen, causing havoc among the children in New York's Ghetto, where the story has its setting. Later, she appears as a grown-up miss, with her boarding-school days behind her, and she promptly falls in love.

IMPOSSIBLE MRS. BELLEW TO CLOSE AT T. D. & L.

The colorful features of "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," the main attraction at the T. D. and L. theatre which will be shown for the last times today and tonight, do not interfere with the real drama of this story by David Lisle, prepared for the screen by Percy Heath. Gloria Swanson enacts an ultra-modern tale of blasted reputation, divorce, mother-love and romance against an exotic setting that is said to add much of interest while not detracting from the virility of the story.

The star is supported by an excellent company of well-known Paramount players. Conrad Nagel plays the male lead with Robert Cain doing one of his polished "heavies." Other roles are taken by Frank Elliott, Richard Wayne, Gertrude Astor, June Elvidge, Herbert Standing, Mickey Moore, Pat Moore, Helen Dunbar, Arthur Hull and Clarence Burton.

A Preview will also be given—a special Jack White comedy—"A Mermaid."

Sunday's Program

House Peters probably could play any role in filmdom, but his forte is parts requiring a simple directness and manly simplicity. Such a characterization is his in "Human Hearts," the Universal-Jewel production in which he stars at the T. D. L. theater Sunday. He is supported by a notable cast including Edith Hallor, George Hackathorne, Mary Philbin and Gertrude Claire. King Baggott directed the picture.

PRISONER OF ZENDA AT THE UNITED THEATER

By way of offering its patrons diversified entertainment, the United Theatre of Eagle Rock tonight presents a typical western story and tomorrow night shifts the locale to the ancient castles and beautiful estates of European royalty.

If your taste runs to rough riding, broncho busting, fist fighting, life in the open, you will find satisfaction in great measure in the feature picture for tonight, "Vengeance Trail," with "Big Boy" Williams and Will Rogers, Jr., as the featured players. There is fast action and lots of excitement of the true western kind.

In "The Prisoner of Zenda," which comes to the United Theatre, Eagle Rock, Sunday and Monday, will be found the most elaborate production yet shown at this popular playhouse. The picture was made by Rex Ingram, director of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," from Anthony Hope's popular story which has been one of the most read books for the past 20 years.

No pains or expense were spared in the making of this picture to give it the gorgeous, royal atmosphere its narrative deserves, and the cast is made up of some of the best known players picture fans the world over have come to admire: Alice Terry, Stuart Holmes, Lewis Stone, Ramon Navarro, Barbara La Marr, Robert Edeson and Edward Connelly.

The United-American film talent contest is creating much interest, now that the list of contestants is complete and the several young ladies are diligently at work among their friends, urging them to "vote early and often."

THE SEWING MACHINE was invented by Howe in 1846.

TROY is called the "Collar City."

A Daily Tour of Glendale Stores

NOVEL MOTIF AT IRISH LINEN STORE

A bright touch to Milady's more austere winter garments is added by her choice from a varied array of colorful handkerchiefs, either in silk, linen or lawn, such as are featured at the Irish Linen Store, owned by W. L. Moore and W. G. Lauderdale at 117 North Brand boulevard. Handkerchiefs of solid color, with small embroidered design in contrasting color worked in one corner, as well as white handkerchiefs with colored borders are being used this season.

The housewife who takes pride in fine table linens would be more than pleased with a gift chosen from a wonderful assortment of Madeira sets. A varied assortment of embroidered towels, table runners, fancy bath towels and mats, oilcloth luncheon sets with painted designs, so popular for the breakfast room, are very attractively displayed and any one of these would make a most acceptable Christmas gift.

This popular store also carries an assortment of bathrobe blankets, boudoir caps, handmade ribbon flowers and lingerie sets, pocketbooks, hosiery and needlework supplies. For the woman who prefers to add a personal touch to her gifts she may make many suitable ones from among the wide selection of yard goods carried at the Irish Linen Store or by application of her skill at embroidering some of the stamped pieces such as are shown here. A feature of this store is the very complete selection which is so pleasing the year around to the women who prefer to shop in Glendale, and which is found to be a particularly desirable feature at the holiday season.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE TAUGHT AT COKER & TAYLOR'S

A school of domestic science will open within the next two weeks at 211½ South Brand, under the auspices of Coker & Taylor, plumbers. This school is absolutely free of charge and will be taught by skilled and authorized teachers.

Coker & Taylor have sold, during the past year, over 500 Direct Action gas ranges, with the no-bottom oven, and this stove will be used in the school. Training of this kind should prove of great interest to many, for if you are unable to make a good angel food cake, or a good berry pie, bring your recipe to this domestic science school, the teacher will make your cake or pie and you may take it home with you, absolutely no cost or obligation whatever. Each of these stoves sold has the Lorain regulator and these stoves are guaranteed not to burn. They are so perfectly regulated that the salesman at Coker & Taylor's said: "If you bake a fruit cake in that oven and burn it, we'll give you the stove."

The newly equipped domestic science room at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate School has six of these stoves, each with the Lorain regulator.

Besides gas ranges, they have a splendid stock of gas heaters. A full line of Radiant Fire or Hot Spot heaters will be found and these chilly mornings they do add comfort to any room in the house. A rather unusual feature about these stoves, they do not smell of gas.

Coker & Taylor are known for their high-class plumbing materials and they have a splendid stock of plumbing fixtures, all of which are of interest to the prospective home builder.

PUMPKIN SEED PRIZE AT RADKE'S

"Some pumpkin!"

One of the largest pumpkins ever seen in Glendale is now on display in the window of Ed M. Radke, jeweler, 109B South Brand boulevard. This pumpkin is just plumb full of seeds. No one knows how many there are, so that's where the question lies.

Ed says he's going to give a sure-enough, grown-up Ford automobile, the largest prize ever offered in Glendale in a guessing contest of this kind, to the person guessing nearest to the number of seeds in that great big bunch of garden fruit. There are no strings to this offer—just go into the Radke store, make a purchase and register your guess and get your ticket. Then when the counting of the seeds takes place on New Year's day, call Mr. Radke up and tell him where to deliver the Ford. Nothing to it, is there? Just as easy.

And by the way, Ed has some of the finest Christmas gifts along the jewelry line to be found in Southern California. He has a complete line of Gorham sterling silver goods, Rogers and Community silver plate, Hawkes cut glass, which is doubtless the finest made.

Then there are Waltham, Elgin, Howard and Hamilton watches, and an excellent line of gold china, which is one of this store's specialties. All of these things are ready for the Christmas shoppers.

Mr. Radke is making a specialty of expert eye glass fitting. He has been fitting glasses to eyes for the past 40 years, and according to ordinary calculations should know his business.

The prices at the Radke store are a revelation.

NEW FURS ARE MADE OF OLD PELTS

Rage for Covering Is Rampant in the Far East —Gotham

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—This is the season when women are either purchasing new fur coats or having the old one remodeled. There are many things about fashions which one may tell a woman, but when it comes to having her fur coat made over, she usually has very definite ideas of her own.

However, this season offers so many styles in furs that one is liable to become confused as to their wants. In the first place there are the short, hip length coats which we all know and which are shown in so many models that it is needless to enlarge. They are in very good style this season and one could not go wrong in having a coat that has seen its best as a long coat, cut up into one of them. The furrier can usually get a fresh looking short coat out of the better parts of an old long one.

For the woman who wants a long coat, there are always ways of having new fur added to old coats to rehabilitate them, but this calls for considerable expense. Recently I saw in a very smart Fifth avenue shop a coat which, to my mind, is an ideal solution for the remodeling of the long seal coat, as it combined a minimum of expense with complete beauty of line.

A full skirt of seal was attached to a heavy black satin bodice, which was completely hidden by two waist-length panels of seal, which fell in cape effect in front and in back. The front panel was divided, forming wide lapels and a small rolled collar was attached at the neckline. None of the satin bodice could be seen at all. The sleeves were of satin, finished with cuffs of seal. The whole garment was lined throughout with blue satin. By having the bodice and sleeves made of satin, the only fur required on the upper portion of the coat was for the two panels that hung in cape fashion to the slightly low waist. Very little new fur, if any, would have to be added to an old coat to make such a garment.

HEALTH ESSENTIALS

"Drink from a pint to a quart of milk each day," says Miss Mary Sutherland, assistant home demonstration agent for the State College of Washington extension division, who is conducting a health campaign among the school children in the state.

This is the first of a dozen "health essentials" she is emphasizing in the campaign. The others are:

Drink no coffee or tea.

Sleep ten to twelve hours with windows open.

Eat two vegetables and fruit every day.

Drink plenty of water (4 to 6 glasses) every day.

Do not eat sweets between meals. Eat whole ground cereals in mush or bread each day.

Brush your teeth twice a day.

Wash your hands before every meal.

Take a full bath more than once a week.

Play part of every day out of doors.

Have a regular bowel movement every morning.

He began with "The Cotter's Saturday Night," "Tam o' Shanter," and "The Jolly Beggars," and was proceeding with "John Anderson," when there was an interruption from the back of the hall.

"What is it, my man?" inquired the lecturer.

"When are you goin' to give us a few 'ints?" came the reply.

"Hints?" repeated the puzzled lecturer.

"Yes, 'ints!" growled the man. "I paid threepence to come in, because you was supposed to know all about burns, an' there you stands spoutin' poitry like a parrot, while my missus, who's upset a saucepan of boilin' water on 'er foot, is waitin' to 'ear whether she'd best souse it wi' oil or shake the flour dredger over it."

YOUR CHILD'S TEETH

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Handicaps of Childhood," Etc.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers)

With the progress of medical research, steadily increasing emphasis is being put upon the importance of preventing and repairing dental decay in the early years of life as a protective measure against general ill-health and a great variety of diseases. School statistics show, however, that even today many parents seem to consider the presence of decayed teeth in their children's mouths a matter of small account.

Actually, as cannot be too forcibly impressed upon the attention of these parents, it is a matter of such account that lifelong harm may be done if children are not trained to take proper care of their teeth and if needed dental work in their behalf is neglected.

The occurrence of chronic indigestion is but one of many evils that may befall children burdened with decayed teeth. Their liability to infection by any of the various disease germs to which children are peculiarly susceptible is greatly increased.

So true is this that, as shown by statistics from sundry large cities, the completion of extensive dental repair campaigns among school children has been followed by a gratifying decline in the occurrence rate of children's diseases. Which indeed is what one would naturally expect.

For always the malignity of disease germs is conditioned by the resistive vitality of those they attack. Dental decay means some degree of lowering of the vitality. Improve the teeth and automatically more resistance to disease is secured.

Also there is secured greater resistance to fatigue and a freeing of the system from toxins which, getting into the brain's blood supply, may interfere seriously with mental processes. Dental decay—especially when it involves dental abscesses—has at times been known to occasion actual mental disease. Again and again it is responsible for some degree of mental enfeeblement, as has been proved by experimental testing of the mental abilities of school children before, during and after the doing of sorely needed dental repair work. No doubt remains that dental trouble, when extensive, may cause so serious a mental dulling as to lead to a false suspicion of inborn defect of mind.

But it is in the realm of the physical that its greatest damage usually is wrought. Besides chronic indigestion, it frequently has as a sequel malnutrition, anaemia or rheumatism. Also, directly or indirectly, it is a source of the glandular troubles so often found in children. And, according to Dr. Joseph Marcus:

"As a result of the local irritation various nervous symptoms may arise, and it has been demonstrated that caries of the teeth is sometimes responsible for nervous manifestations such as habit spasm, facial chorea, headaches and perhaps epilepsy."

This by no means exhausts the catalogue of ills that dental decay may produce or provoke. Small wonder that medical men and dentists are working in ever closer cooperation, and that all whose business it is to safeguard the public health are more and more earnestly striving to persuade parents to better care for their children's teeth as well as of their own.

A Scotchman who landed in Canada not long ago asked a coal black Negro to direct him to his destination. It happened that the black had been born in the Highland district of Scotland and lived there most of his life. "Hey, mannie," said the Scotchman, "can ye tell me whaur I'll find the kirk?" The darky pointed with his arm. "Go richt up to yon wee hoose and turn to yer richt and gang up the hill," he said. The visiting Scotty looked at him in horror. "And arre ye frae Scotland, mon?" he asked. "R-richt ye arre," said the darky. Aberdeen's ma hame." "And hoo lang have ye been here?" asked the Scotchman breathlessly. "Aboot two year," said the darky. "Lord save us and preserve us," said the new arrival. "Whaur ken I get the boat for Edinborough?"

"This," we often hear people say, "is a very critical time."

FLOOD OF PROSPERITY, WAVES OF GOLD WILL SOON SWEEP OVER COUNTRY, BRINGING GREAT FINANCIAL GAIN

The Leading Business Minds of the Country Predict That Uncle Sam Is Now Embarking on An Era of Success That Is Undreamed of Prosperity and winter are coming on hand in hand, according to a symposium of heads of the nation's great industries.

When Charles M. Schwab declared in a recent speech that never in his career had he foreseen better conditions than are "just ahead," he raised a question which was answered today in exclusive statements to the United Press by ten outstanding business men of the country.

Increased employment, vouched for by the labor department at Washington, better home conditions for the great purchasing public, permitting more business with lower prices and a general settling down to normalcy, are given as some of the reasons for the unanimous optimistic outlook towards the coming winter and spring.

Among the industries canvassed were:

Packing, textiles, hotels, movies, clothing, shoes, automobiles, furniture and the American farm bureau.

PACKING

"The meat packing business is in a better condition than it has been for several years," declared Charles E. Herrick, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers. "Meat values are more nearly stable now and the export trade continues somewhat larger than during pre-war years. The entire packing industry faces the future with confidence."

TEXTILES

The outlook in the cotton and wool industries is very encouraging, according to A. H. Garside, head of the industrial department of the Merchants National bank of Boston. "Mills have increased operations to a point where they are now running on an average of 90 per cent of normal," Garside says. "The industry is practically free from labor difficulties. There is some uneasiness as to whether consumers will be able or willing to buy the usual volume of goods when recent advances in raw materials are passed on to them, but for the present the mills are receiving a large volume of orders."

HOTELS

"Everything indicates prosperity," says E. M. Statler, head of the Statler hotel system, speaking on business conditions. "We have seen a decided increase in business from the last 60 to 90 days throughout the cities in which we operate. Previous to that there had been a decrease as compared with last year. As far as I can see, this new prosperity seems to be general. The tide has turned and it seems as if this era of increased trade would continue."

CLOTHING

Samuel Weill, president of the Stein Bloch company, wholesale clothiers, says:

"Our trade shows marked improvement and the spring sales are increasing substantially. The outstanding danger to the present favorable conditions would be a disposition to speculate or over-expand."

SHOES

"Business today is much better than it was a year ago," says L. H. Dalton, an official of the Brockton Shoe company. "Manufacturers belitve hard times are behind and sound prosperity ahead. Not boom times, but good conditions with a demand for higher grade shoes. Labor conditions are better and the free hides provided by the new tariff are sure to help consumers on prices, although raw material is now cheaper here than it is abroad."

AUTOMOBILES

"Business is holding up well during the latter part of 1922 and prospects for 1923 are especially bright," said H. M. Jewett, president of the Paige company of Detroit.

Both the Dort Motor company of Flint, Mich., and the Dodge Bros. agree with Jewett that 1923 will be a record year in their industry.

FURNITURE

There is no justification for a material increase in furniture prices, says William B. Wreford, active secretary of the Retail Furniture association of America. Walnut and mahogany are both down, according to Wreford.

Some manufacturers have announced that they will be forced to advance prices, but this should not be necessary. Wreford cautions against stocking needs too far in advance and predicts that there will be only a slight increase.

MOVIES

"Experience seems to indicate that the support of amusements follows rather than precedes the curve up or down of general prosperity," declared Will H. Hays, high commissioner of the movies. "In almost every locality the attendance at movies is now increasing," he said. "Two causes may be given: That prosperity is returning and that better and more interesting pictures are being shown as it is winter."

Cecil B. De Mille, producer and director, declared prosperity is here, but only for those who produce pictures of "a number one" quality, as the public is becoming very critical and will accept no second-rate productions.

METHODS OF IRISH NOW FROWNED UPON

Teaching the public to lay bricks rather than throw them is the newest policy of the Los Angeles board of education. In keeping with this theory the school officials have established three bricklaying classes in the city under the direct supervision of C. W. Eberling.

The classes are held every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday, at the Eighth and Grand avenue part-time school.

A night class for those who are unable to attend during the day is held at the same school on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of every week.

Two evenings a week Mr. Eberling conducts a class at the Lincoln high school.

This class meets Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Not only are the pupils taught to lay bricks, but a thorough course in masonry construction is part of the study.

The new students are first taught the mixing and handling of mortar and after having mastered that phase the next step is erection of brick walls, next comes corners, fireplaces and chimneys and in the final step the art of laying press brick facing is taken up.

Mr. Eberling, in speaking of the course, stated that any pupil who will apply himself in the class for a period of six months will be able to leave the school and make $1.25 an hour.

At the present time there is a great shortage of bricklayers on the Pacific Coast.

The Grand avenue class started with 18 members and at the present time 56 students are enrolled.

All young men of the city between the ages of 19 and 25 may roll and are urged to do so if interested.

No tuition fee is connected with the course.

SOME POINTS ON PLASTERING HOMES

There are many advantages and economies to the builder in using plaster as an exterior covering for buildings which we will endeavor to point out in a very brief way:

1. When suitable plastering materials are used, properly mixed and applied, it provides a permanent covering which requires a minimum of attention and repairs and naturally is the most durable and sanitary construction.

2. Such buildings need never be painted if a good colored stucco is used, which alone materially reduces the maintenance cost of the buildings.

3. The liability from fire is greatly reduced, and consequently insurance rates, since a plaster constructed house cannot be set on fire by sparks as can a frame or shingle house.

4. Plaster construction lends itself readily to ornamentation and is easily adapted to architectural details of construction and environment by service texture or color, or by a combination of texture and color.

5. It is a well known fact that plaster is a non-conductor of heat and cold, which naturally makes a warmer house in winter and a cooler house in summer.

In England, France and other old countries will be found many buildings, centuries old, of plaster and cement construction, which are today in splendid condition.

This fact contradicts the statement which has been made to the effect that plaster will endure only in dry or warm climates, since these countries are both very damp and cold, especially England, except for a short summer season.

There are many good examples of the durability of plaster construction in our Middle Atlantic States, where the climate is damp and cold for several months of the year.

These buildings were constructed prior to the Revolutionary war, are almost 150 years old, and upon them the plaster is still in good condition.

Ancient history teaches us that exterior plaster was one of the first materials used by man to protect the outside of buildings.

The high state of development of the art, as evidenced by the ruins of Egypt and other old countries, many of which date back several centuries before the Christian era, bear testimony to the fact that there have been generations of experiment and observation.

SOME NECESSITIES FOR THE NEW KITCHEN

In the planning of the small house it is often the case that too little attention is given to the economical arrangement of the floor space and wall areas.

In many instances one will find the walls of rooms so cut up by improperly placed openings for doors and windows that the available space for furnishings is very materially and needlessly reduced, and in nearly every case these faults could have been easily overcome by simply giving a little study to the planning and arrangement of spaces and openings.

Faults of this character are serious enough, but there is still another fault which is really of a more serious nature, and that is in the arrangement of fixtures in the service portion of the house.

One frequently finds, particularly in the kitchen, the fixtures so placed that many unnecessary steps are required in the preparation of every meal.

Faults like this are of a lasting nature and are not like mistakes made in the selection of colors for the exterior or paper for the interior, which fade and require replacement, allowing your better judgment to correct the error; errors in plan are in most cases of a lasting nature and involve great expense in their correction, if correction can be made.

In the small house, the house in which a servant is not employed, excepting upon rare occasion, the planning of the kitchen is of vital importance, and should be given more study than all the remaining portion of the plan.

As one often hears remarked, "It is not so much the size of the kitchen as it is its arrangement."

However, as a general statement, the smaller a kitchen is, within reasonable limitations, the better, for the simple reason that all fixtures are as a matter of course brought closer together, thus reducing unnecessary travel.

ROLLING BED HAS ORIGIN IN L. A.

The origin of the concealed bed is closely allied with the growth and progress of Los Angeles.

Some 15 years ago the first type of patented concealed bed, now so generally used here, was devised and brought out by a resident of Los Angeles.

Since then these various types have been brought to the highest degree of perfection.

And it is this perfection that has so greatly contributed to their utilization in the home, flat and apartment building.

It is not surprising, therefore, that concealed beds are more generally used in this vicinity than elsewhere throughout the United States.

Visitors within our gates simply marvel at the reception given these devices, and cannot understand why the extreme East has not learned to utilize such practical equipment in the home. The manufacturer of these clever beds at first dwelt upon the conservation of space which they saved in the construction of buildings.

People were quick to see the advantage of such a unique arrangement.

But it remained for the housewife, the housekeeper, afterwards, to discover perhaps their greatest charm.

By constant use they found them indispensable in the home, for they lightened household duties, prolonged life and improved dispositions.

This very fact is substantiated in a recent article appearing in an afternoon paper which, referring to the life of ease which our tourists enjoy, stated:

"Buying delicatessen dinner and making the disappearing bed are their only domestic responsibilities."

"The use of these concealed beds," as a woman not interested in their sale remarked, "is just in its infancy."

When you realize the saving of space and cost of building they effect, to say nothing of labor saved in doing the housework, they are very necessary when planning a home.

In flats and apartment buildings they are most essential, and are usually specified by owners when consulting an architect or builder.

Another economy they effect is in furnishing a room. They simply save the cost of an additional room, which is quite an item, together with the outlay of funds sufficient for furnishing same.

There is nothing that appeals so strongly to womankind as savings of any nature.

She is eternally on her guard when anything pertaining to the household is concerned and consequently she has given the concealed bed a most hearty welcome and advocates it at all times.

She now has an opportunity of buying these beds made up in square tubing, with special designs and furnished in colors to suit.

BUILT-INS MUCH NEEDED THESE DAYS

Modernity is the watchword of the present day up-to-date home. Having this quality means having perfect efficiency and convenience.

In built-in furniture lies the solution of the home builder for these two desirable requisites, whether that be a marble front mansion or a three-room bungalow.

A few years ago no thought was given to the saving of space or steps, no especial consideration was shown the housewife in regard to her convenience.

Today woman's newer and more independent position in the general scheme of things necessitates catering to her convenience and comfort.

No more estimable thing can be done by the house builder than to lighten woman's work in the kitchen.

Built-in furniture systematizes the work in the kitchen. It makes possible the old catch phrase as applicable to the kitchen, namely, "A place for everything and everything in its place."

There are various ways and styles of installing built-in furniture. The modern home cannot be termed so unless it has some style of kitchen cabinet.

There are various styles of these cabinets, diversified enough in their appointments to suit the fastidiousness of the most exacting housewife.

The modern way is to build these cabinets as a permanent fixture in the kitchen.

The newest and most modern scheme for accommodating the kitchen furniture, outside of the kitchen cabinet, is to use the disappearing type, which folds into the wall, out of sight, and out of the way when not being used.

There are several different styles on the market at the present time.

In this last category is included such things as ironing boards, tables and seats, either individually or in combination with such things as cupboards, coolers, broom closets, etc.

By combining these different features it is possible to economize on space and by doing so eliminate hundreds of steps every day for the housewife.

As in all lines there is a diversity of efficiency in disappearing built-in features.

The advice of experience is that the householder, or owner, should investigate for himself and determine specifically whether or not the articles he intends to purchase will meet with his particular requirements.

For example, in purchasing the built-in ironing board, one should be especially careful to insist and find out if the ironing board can be padded and closed into its opening so as to allow the door to be closed to conceal it.

BERRIES TO GROW ON THE HOME PLACE

The Easterner, coming to California for the first time, misses the blaze of autumn coloring that fills the woods of the temperate states where frost and the falling leaves combine to fill nature's palette with vivid hues.

The trees and shrubs that contribute to these gorgeous color schemes are generally deciduous, a fact which militates against such effects in Southern California, where most of our plants are evergreen.

Our local fall landscape is, however, mellowed by the browns and yellows of the falling sycamore leaves, and is tinged by the red of the poison oak foliage, which in its beauty belies the true character of the plant.

But it is our California Christmas Berry, or Toyon, which streaks the hillsides with its brilliant scarlet berries in a way that lures to its own destruction by those who are not content to enjoy nature in her own setting, but must rob the hillsides for the fleeting joy of temporary possession.

This shrub, which is sometimes called California holly, a misnomer in every respect, is of the same family as the rose and apple.

Botanically, it is called "heteromeles arbutifolia," the second name of which indicates that the leaf of the plant resembles that of the arbutus.

It occurs everywhere within our chaparral belt, on the mountain slopes and along the streams of our coastal range.

Typically, it is a broad and spreading shrub of excellent, deep-green foliage and appearance.

Under favorable conditions it attains the proportions and appearance of a small tree with a well defined trunk and umbrageous head.

LOCAL PEACHES LEAD WORLD

California grows one-third of the peaches in the United States and one-third of the deciduous fruits produced in California are peaches, according to H. M. Butterfield, supervisor of Agricultural Correspondent Courses in the University of California.

The new plantings of peaches during the next three years will likely increase the bearing acreage about 40 per cent.

Whether growers will continue to receive good prices for their crop will partly depend upon marketing methods and partly upon cultural methods used by them.

The College of Agriculture is anxious that all peach growers shall prepare themselves to meet any possible emergency that may arise.

A correspondence course on peach culture, recently prepared, describes methods of pruning, spraying, irrigating, harvesting, marketing, etc.

Persons interested should send for Circular 113, which describes the agricultural correspondence courses offered. Address the College of Agriculture, Berkeley.

MORE SCARED THAN HURT

By June Andersen, Age 9 Years; Grade A-4; Columbus Ave. School

When I was only seven years old I loved to climb trees. The tree that I especially loved to climb was right in front of my house.

One day I thought I would climb up to my tree house, which father had made for me in the tree. I sat down, but the place where I sat wasn't very comfortable, so I got a board and put it across two limbs and sat down. I had not sat there very long before—crash! and down I fell! I did not hurt myself very much, but I didn't know whether to laugh or cry. I decided then that I was more scared than hurt.

EAGLE GLEN TRACT WILL OVERLOOK HIGH SCHOOL

Glendale people have much to be thankful for, in looking over the civic records of the past year, but perhaps most of all for the completion of plans that assure the city a new high school on a scale that would justify pride in any municipality, says R. V. Henry, local manager for the J. Harvey McCarthy company of Eagle Glen Heights.

"Probably not until the new school shall have been completed will the people of Glendale realize to the full what a tremendously important step they have taken for the benefit of the community," declared Mr. Henry. "But when the eye can actually see what the mind has only been able to visualize in an incomplete way, then they will know that this city has risen to heights of civic achievement of which it may well be proud.

"Because of the close proximity of Eagle Glen Heights to the high school site we, out there, are able to obtain a quicker understanding of some of the benefits that the school has already brought to Glendale, and particularly to the section centering about the eastern end of Broadway. We know that the news of the enterprise of Glendale in planning for itself such a magnificent educational institution has traveled far and wide, for prospective purchasers of home sites at Eagle Glen Heights have been attracted there because they wanted to be near the school. We know, too, that property values have already been enhanced to a marked degree — an enhancement which will add materially to the tax credits of the city—and we are convinced that this rise in property values has only just begun. Large as has been Glendale's investment, it will, I am sure, prove one of the best it ever made."

To the interest in the new high school Mr. Henry ascribes the fact that Eagle Glen Heights is nearly sold out, and that, in all probability, every lot will have been disposed of before the New Year comes. A large proportion of those who have bought home sites have families to whom the exceptional educational facilities of this foothill tract have great value. There are already many beautiful homes on the tract, and now that the improvements are practically all completed, many other residences are to be erected immediately.

"By the time the new high school opens its doors next September," said Mr. Henry, "I prophecy that Eagle Glen Heights will be built up as solidly as the oldest part of Glendale."

In small towns the real society lions are the boys behind the soda fountains.

Fall Fashions

A great deal of metal embroidery and a liking for a very full skirt and deep bertha is shown in the fall fashions.

As people get older and see real trouble they wonder that they ever cried because rain fell on a picnic.

If you eat too much you haven't a great deal of room to preach temperance. The crowded stomach is as destructive as the booze-addled brain.

CAHUENGA PARK IS NEW HOME BUILDING

"Cahuenga Park," the new subdivision at the junction of Ventura boulevard and Sherman way, presented a gala appearance Sunday. Hundreds of brightly colored balloons, gifts of the subdividers to their younger guests, were to be seen in every direction. The large red and black pennants which almost surround the tract added more vividness to the scene.

Mr. C. C. Albright of Bundy & Albright, the subdividers, admitted that he was greatly surprised by the size of the crowd. "Naturally, I looked for quite a number of people," he said, "but this exceeds my fondest expectations. It only serves to demonstrate that if you have something superior to offer the public will make a beaten path to your door. The fact that 75 per cent of the buyers here are residents of the San Fernando valley," he continued, "clinches that argument. The home folk have been watching this property for a long time. They know its productiveness and they know its value."

Mr. Albright states that over 100 lots have been sold, on which the owners plan to erect homes immediately. At an average of $3,000 each this means that at least $300,000 will be expended within a very short time. Practically all this will be spent right in the San Fernando valley.

Speeches are on the program for Sunday and Free Balloons will be presented to every child visitor at the tract.

Contracts for street work are let, and grading has started.

SPARR HEIGHTS TO ERECT CLASSY TRACT

Francis-Barnum-Walters company have just announced their plan of erecting and donating to the city of Glendale and particularly the residents of Sparr Heights a Community building. The structure, as shown in the architect's plans, will be of Mission design with a ground floor 65x100. A wide cloister effect porch will extend entirely around the building and will offer an ever-shaded loitering place. The main auditorium will seat about five hundred and will have a 10x16 stage with dressing-rooms, etc., making possible community plays.

In this connection there will also be a splendid, completely equipped kitchen to facilitate the handling of luncheons and community dinners.

On either side of a large reception-room in another part of the building will be private clubrooms, library room and committee-rooms. Every convenience possible will be provided to add to the social life of the community.

This Community building is to be located in the second unit of Sparr Heights, which opens today, and is only one of the many features in this beautiful tract which will add to the comfort and entertainment of its residents.

KENNETH CREST IS IN UNUSUAL DEMAND

Edwards & Wildey report a heavy demand for property in Kenneth Crest, their latest Glendale subdivision, which was put on the market for pre-opening reservations last week.

Kenneth Crest is located on the north side of Kenneth road, at Pacific avenue, and is declared to be one of the most exclusive residential tracts in the foothill section. No expense is being spared in developing the property.

Many look forward to some of the finest residential development in Glendale to take place in Kenneth Crest, which is surrounded by some of the show places of Southern California.

It is pointed out that the fine type of homes already in the neighborhood and the rigid restrictions in effect will guarantee the favor of this tract as the finest residential locality near Los Angeles.

Edwards & Wildey have won an enviable reputation for marketing some of the most successful subdivisions in Glendale, Hollywood, Eagle Rock and Los Angeles. They have been established 17 years and this is their 49th subdivision.

Despite the fine character of the property the sites in Kenneth Crest are selling at from $2,100 up for lots as large as 70x200, including all improvements. It is pointed out that the low prices are possible because of the fact that Edwards & Wildey purchased the land at low acreage prices.

KEEP YOUR MONEY IN THE VALLEY, WHERE IT BRINGS THE BIGGEST RETURNS

Bounteous Mother Nature at her best created the San Fernando Valley, the richest, most productive land in the world for fruits, berries and vegetables. She placed it between two gloriously beautiful ranges of mountains and gave it a perfect climate — cool in summer, warm and frostless in winter.

FINEST LOCATION IN THE WORLD

Then came man. He tilled the fertile soil and reaped amazingly large harvests. People came by the thousands. Land values soared. Cities began to spring up. But the finest spot in all the valley was unavailable. Nestling up against the foothills and overlooking the whole district was a tract of 1,100 acres, an ideal location for a city and a community of small farms.

"CAHUENGA PARK IS GOING BIG! WATCH US GROW!"

A few weeks ago we were fortunate enough to secure this entire tract at a sacrifice price. After subdividing it and putting in surfaced streets, curbs, gas, electricity and water, we found we could still sell the improved land at less than wholesale prices for the adjoining acreage.

PLANT DISEASE STUDY

How do you send specimens of diseased plants when you wish the experts at the State College of Washington to diagnose your trouble and give you advice? Many inquiries have been received in letters, sometimes without specimens and sometimes with plants in such poor condition that it is difficult or impossible to tell what the trouble has been. Sometimes the specimens alone, if properly packed, will be enough; but sometimes it is necessary to know about environment, cultural practices, and weather conditions while the crop was growing.

Fruits, woody branches without leaves, and such specimens should be wrapped in paper and packed in pasteboard boxes or tied up in a special package.

Specimens with foliage should be either wrapped in waxed paper or put between the pages of a magazine and pressed under a weight. Damp moss or such packing should never be used.

No small fragments should be sent; the franked tag will take four pounds as well as it will an ounce, and it is easier for the experts to study the trouble if they have a number of specimens the disease from light to severe infections, as well as a number of normal plants or parts for comparison. The root system should be included with all small specimens, as it may be the seat of the trouble.

In sending information about a plant disease, the following points should be covered: (1) Is the trouble local or general in the field? (2) Is the entire plant effected (especially trees?) (3) Are all varieties equally affected? (4) Is there alkali in the soil? Poor drainage? Light soil? High water table? Shadow soil with underlying hard pan, etc. (5) What were the irrigation or cultural practices of the diseased crop? (6) What, if any, important weather variations from normal have there been? (7) What, if any, prevention or control measures have been tried?

Red Spider Control

The control of red spiders in deciduous orchards is the subject of Bulletin No. 347, just issued by the University of California Agricultural Experiment Station. This publication by E. R. de Ong, instructor in entomology, supplies a long-standing need of California deciduous fruit growers for more adequate information on the red spider and methods of its control.

The life history and habits of three species of red spiders common in deciduous orchards are described in Bulletin No. 347 and by means of a colored plate the typical appearance and color of the adult female and egg of these three species are shown. Illustrations also show the effect on the leaves and on the buds and the fruit of the feeding of red spiders. In two prune orchards one season, red spider attack decreased the crop value $113 and $458 per acre respectively, including loss in weight of crop and reduction in grade. Preventive and control measures suited to the different species are described. The value of sulphur dusting is discussed and careful directions given for making sprays effective. The relation between irrigation and red spider injury is shown.

A copy of Bulletin No. 347 may be secured by addressing the Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Berkeley.

HELP FROM THE LAWYERS

Lawyers are taking a decided stand against the insanity plea, as such plea figures in the usual murder trial. In doing so they fall into line with public opinion. To men of no other class could the fact be clearer that the plea in question generally is a fraudulent effort to defeat justice. Ordinarily there is no other reason for its introduction. It does not deceive court or counsel. In instances it does deceive the jury. It leads the weaker minded among the jurors into a condition of doubt or of maudlin sympathy.

Perhaps after all, the trial of Clara Phillips, albeit it failed to convict of murder in the first degree, may accomplish some good. It has called attention to an outrageous practice. It is not going too far to say that nobody thought the Phillips woman insane. Least of all could her counsel have held such opinion. Nevertheless the hypothesis of insanity, supported by paid witnesses, was relied upon to save her from punishment for a hideous and deliberate murder. If her act was not first degree murder, then there is no crime to be so classified. A travesty so heralded abroad as was the trial could not but engage the energies of citizens who believe in law and its application.

When a prisoner is charged with a serious offense, it would be easy to have an inquisition into the mental state of the accused, preliminary to the trial. It should not be conducted by a lawyer eager to set up grounds for a plea of insanity. It should not depend on the testimony of witnesses engaged in earning a fee from either side. Should the person arraigned be found non compos mentis, the next act would be incarceration in a place provided for the criminal lunatic. If the finding should be the contrary, then the whole subject of insanity would be eliminated, and the criminal trial could be conducted in accordance with the law and the facts, with an utter absence of extraneous and bewildering nonsense.

This seems to be the idea of the lawyers. It has been advocated many times in these columns. For it is time that the murder trial ceased to be a farce.

JUSTICE TO THE INDIAN

Albert Freeman, a full-blood Indian, is lecturing upon the wrongs of his people. He does not speak even with the bitterness that might be justifiable, but he tells the truth, and telling it, shames the people of the United States. There is nothing in the history of their relations with the native red men to which they may point with pride. So far as Indians have been hostile, they had been goaded to it by a long series of wrongs. With decent treatment from the time of their first contact with white settlers, it is probable that amicable associations would have been established and continued. At least there never could have been the anomoly cited by Mr. Freeman, of the Indian's coming forward to fight for the government and finding himself neither citizen nor alien. Yet he fought, and fought well.

People come from all parts of Europe to be received as fit material for the melting pot. Many of them arrive bringing deep-seated sentiments opposed to every principle of Americanism. Some are admitted to citizenship while still cherishing these sentiments. The Indian alone has been the one to whom the door of opportunity has been deliberately closed. The policy of making a ward of him, accompanied as it has been, by systematically depriving him of inherent rights and robbing him of his property, has tended to promote his inefficency.

Give the Indian a chance, and there is no reason to suppose that he would not develop into a fine citizenship. Continue to deny him more than the individuality of one animal in a herd, and there can be no outlook for him. The wrong should be repaired, so far as possible, not merely as a matter of justice to the Indian, but for the credit of the white race.

A CITY OF THE PAST

Eight miles east of Babylon there are mounds under which is said to rest the ancient royal city of Kish. Scientists are now on their way to the place, equipped to excavate the site. What secrets their research may reveal, when the accumulated debris of centuries has been torn away, may not even be conjectured. Perhaps there will be nothing to be revealed. It may be that the eager scientist has been misled by tradition. Nevertheless, the possibility of discovering the capital of the oldest dynasty of history stirs a deep interest.

Sedulously as scholars have delved into the past, it is singular that so little should be known of former civilizations. The plane to which they arose, the extent of their inventions, their degree of culture, remain mysteries concerning which light is eagerly sought. It may be that civilizations excelling the present in achievement have flourished, fallen, and left no trace. It is possible that even Kish, buried as is supposed, 6500 years, was erected on the ashes of some mighty regime of which the records bear no word, and that have no place in tradition.

Predictions have been made that the civilization of today will be ephemeral. Familiar to all readers are the words of Macaulay: "When some traveler from New Zealand shall, in the midst of a vast solitude, take his stand on a broken arch of London Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's."

Doubtless such civilization as held sway thousands of years ago felt itself secure. It could not look forward to the day of effacement. There is now more data from which to draw knowledge.

GREECE SHOCKS THE WORLD

The course of the Greek government in executing the death penalty upon members of the former cabinet, doubtless has shocked the world. It was not done because these men had been instrumental in making war, but that they failed to achieve victory. Doubtless the then king should have had all the blame. He had been permitted to return to a throne of which he had proved himself to be unworthy. He came back mouthing a declaration of war on Turkey. He provoked an enemy far too potent for him, and his forces had to retreat in disorder. The king was permitted again to retire and to get out with a whole skin. Then those who had taken the orders of the king were lined up before a firing squad and shot to death. This was an episode standing out even against a turbulent background, with a horror peculiarly its own.

In the circumstances the war against Turkey was a grievous error. It was so recognized by the other powers. In refraining from estoppel of the movement, they became accessory, and upon them rests part of the blame, and part of the consequences. If the authorities of Greece think that they are making amends by an exhibition of butchery, they must function intellectually and morally at a surprisingly low level. They have forfeited their remaining right to the respect of the world, and it will be long before the stain can be effaced from the national repute.

These words in relation to conditions at the county jail, spoken by Attorney Joseph Scott, are well worth quoting:

"If a circus housed its animals in the manner that the men and women in the county jail are kept, all the ministers and the women's clubs of the town would be howling their heads off."

AT THE TELEPHONE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A great deal of mental anguish and a considerable business loss is caused by imperfect talk over the telephone.

Dr. Frank Crane

The telephone company is blamed for a lot of things which really lie at the door of the telephone users.

In the first place, most people have poor voices and bad enunciation. You can't understand them when you speak with them face to face, much less when their voice comes over a wire.

Attend, therefore, Horatio, and amend.

First, as to numbers. The three numbers, one, two and eight, are rarely muffed. They are simple vowel explosions. As for the others, it will help if, instead of saying three, we say "therr ree"; instead of saying four, "foe were"; instead of five, the two words, "fi ov"; instead of seven, "sev un", and instead of nine, "nigh on." Six is easy and is rarely bungled.

When you take down the telephone give your name. You would hardly go up to a man in his house or office and start talking to him without telling him who you are. What business have you speaking to him over the telephone without disclosing your identity? Therefore the first thing you do when you answer the 'phone, say, if your name happens to be John Jones, "John Jones speaking."

Remember, that while your name is very familiar to yourself, it is often the hardest word for another to catch, therefore give it a special plainness. It might be a good idea to spell it. If it is a trifle unusual, such as L'Oiseau or Freauf, spell it in this way: "L for lamb, O for Oliver, I for index, S for Samuel, E for Edward, A for Albert, and U for upstairs." In the case of Freauf, "F for funny, R for rock, E for everyday, A for Annabelle, U for Underwood, and F for fluffy." This may take a little time, but it may save you money and may prevent your assassination.

Watch out for the end of your word. English-speaking people have a peculiar way of talking in that they explode the first syllable and mumble the rest. Instead of interesting, they say "instrng," and pronounce it mostly "int." Therefore, if you have long words to say pronounce them, as, for instance, "in ter nash tion al," and punch each syllable with the same force—that is, if you want your hearer to get exactly the word.

Don't shout; it makes vibrations and blurs the sound. Don't speak too low. Speak in a clear, ordinary voice, such as you would use in addressing some one about ten feet away.

Also, these Don'ts: Don't chat, don't visit, don't get angry, don't whisper. And—don't swear.

Thus will the sum of human happiness be some what increased.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES

"Conservative Driver"

C. E. A., Chicago, Ill.: "I desire to find out if it is proper or correct English to use the expression, 'conservative driver', in speaking of an automobile driver, one who is careful but does not stall traffic, who always keeps to the right and passes no one except when he has sufficient space to do so, one who averages between 22 and 28 miles per hour on a good highway with not too much traffic." Answer: Conservative symbolizes the quality of clinging to the existing order of things, and there is grave doubt that this order is as you have described it. Careful seems to be a more appropriate word.

"Any One's Failing To Gain"

Mildred Braunstein, New York City: "I should like to have your decision as to whether or not the following sentence illustrates an exception to the rule that the substantive qualifying a gerund should be in the possessive case; or, even when a number of words separate the substantive form from the gerund, as in this case, whether the possessive should be used: 'I can hardly imagine any one (any one's), whatever his degree of information, unless he happens to be a specialist failing to gain something of value from any one of the volumes mentioned—From 'The Mind in the Making'."

Answer: Fundamentally, any one's is correct, but it is awkward when separated so far from the gerund that it qualifies. There is no dispute over the following: "I can hardly imagine any one's failing to gain something"; nor is there any dispute over the following: "I can hardly imagine that any one, whatever his degree of information, unless he happens to be a specialist, will fail to gain something of value from any one of the volumes mentioned." Certain things that are right can be so treated that they seem unusual, complicated, and awkward; this is true of a gerund's being preceded by a modifier in the possessive case, from which it is separated by a number of words. The temptation is, then, to drop the sign of the possessive, 's, as illustrated in the foregoing sentence, when the construction could be changed and any accusation of ungrammatical locution or awkwardness forestalled.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

A thoughtful man sat before a king and queen some hundreds of years ago.

Before a king and queen and their counsellors.

He came with a startling plan.

And as with all startling plans, there was doubt and questioning.

Skepticism.

* * *

But the sincere and thoughtful and courageous man persisted.

He was interrogated.

Possibly his plan was made light of.

It was preposterous in the opinion of some of the wise men of the council.

But the thoughtful man declared that the thing was entirely possible.

* * *

He said the thing he had in mind could be done.

It needed merely money and ships and the support of authority.

Given those, he would do the rest.

So the money and the ships were given and the man did the rest.

His name was Christopher Columbus.

* * *

He was never doubtful.

He never permitted himself to think of failure.

He was confident and sure.

And he did that which up to that time had been thought chimerical and preposterous.

* * *

So it has been through the world and its history.

Another man sat in a council of financiers and wise men.

He said messages could be conveyed across the Atlantic ocean.

It was possible to lay a cable beneath the water and send messages by telegraph over that.

* * *

It was a rather astounding plan.

To lay a cable beneath the Atlantic ocean for its width was no easy task.

For the Atlantic ocean was pretty wide and deep.

But the man was sure.

And the thing was done.

Click! And you have a message between Europe and America.

* * *

Another man dreamed of a bridge on two wires across the East river at New York.

It was a pretty big undertaking.

To suspend a bridge structure upon cables.

But the thing was done.

Because somebody worked out the plan and knew it was feasible.

* * *

And somebody else piled stories upon stories to make a building fifty-seven stories high.

Somebody said messages could be sent for thousands of miles through the air without wires.

Somebody said it would be possible for a man in New York to speak with a man in San Francisco.

Somebody said it would be possible to make a go-cart to carry seven people at sixty miles an hour.

Somebody said men would eventually fly through the air like birds.

* * *

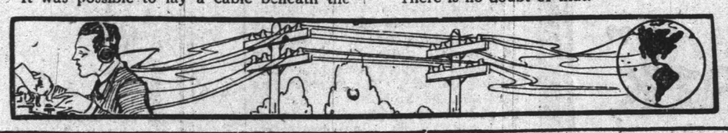
It has all been done.

And the miracle of yesterday is the utility of today.

It is difficult to say what things will be done in the next hundred years.

But our eyes will stick out often.

There is no doubt of that.



Songs of the Poets

The Surface of the Depths—By Lewis Morris (1833-1907)

Love took my life and thrilled it
Through all its strings,
Played round my mind and filled it
With sound of wings;
But to my heart he never came
To touch it with his golden flame.

Therefore it is that singing
I do rejoice,
Nor heed the slow years bringing
A harsher voice;
Because the songs that he has sung
Still leave the untouched singer young.

But whom in fuller fashion
The Master sways,
For him, swift-winged with passion,
Fleet the brief days.
Betimes the enforced accents come,
And leave him ever after dumb.

THE PRICE OF PEACE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

In youth our dancing feet chase the will-o-the-wisp of happiness across bog and desert and sandy waste. In age we cry to heaven for peace.

To unite the two is the awful problem of humanity. They can only be fused through the alchemy of character; and no man has character except as he buys it with blood and sweat. Love can not give it, nor wealth command it; and the most that the strength of ancestral power can bestow is the possibility held in its rudiments.

However, the rudiment is not the thing any more than the seed is the tree. A possibility is a promise for tomorrow and between the promise and the fact lie years of striving. The torture of Tantalus lay in a possibility that his straining sinews could never touch; and this is the torture of every flaccid lover of ease.

Daily, almost hourly, somebody implores me to put character into a human jelly fish, as if character could be given by hypodermic injection. What drug can stabilize emotions that overflow like spring freshets, regardless of who is drowned?

Where shall we discover a medicine that will keep the feet of a weak woman on the hard and lovely path of virtue?

What god will give to suffering children a salve to open the eyes of selfish parents and where shall we look for a specific against jealousy?

These are the problems that I am asked to solve. Written on tear-stained paper, they flutter about my desk like a flock of frightened birds, and back of every question is a human heart quivering with the hope of relief.

Do you wonder that I long for a specific that will cure by magic the wounds I see? But there is no magic except the magic of character; and that magic we all win for ourselves or do without.

Nobody believes this, of course, because it's human to wish to be made happy at once and forever. Have we not been brought up on legends of a heaven of crowns and golden harps? And have not we always overlooked the statement that harps and crowns are given as rewards only to those who have overcome?

Get it right, friends, there is no permanent happiness divorced from peace and only character can weld peace and happiness into one.

What we earn we get; even temporary happiness shuns the neighborhood of the shiftless.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

A SIGNIFICANT AFFINITY

[Houston Post]

Isn't it rather significant that the cause of the so-called political prisoners in the United States is so often linked with that of the Russian bolsheviki?

Among those who have been most vigorous in their demands for the release of the war-time offenders have been socialists and others openly in sympathy with the soviet regime in Russia. The bolsheviki's sympathizers in this country for some reason have been greatly interested in preventing the government from carrying out its punishment of those who sought to obstruct its war preparations.

The latest instance of the linking of these two causes occurred a few days ago in Chicago when Senator Borah at a meeting advertised as one of a series to arouse sentiment in favor of the releasing the war-time offenders, demanded that the American government recognize the Russian bolshevik government.

Apparently, there is a strong affinity between these radical elements. The only logical conclusion is that it was bolsheviki influence that encouraged most of the war-time offences, and the very fact that it is the apologists for and advocates of bolshevism that are the most active in the interest of the prisoners, suggests the inadvisability of releasing them.

Bolshevism is the arch enemy of American democracy. The principle of the one is diametrically opposed to the principle of the other. Whenever our government recognizes soviet Russia, it recognizes an enemy. Those who are pleading for the recognition of Russia and the release of the radicals in federal prisons in the same breath are at least consistent. If the government recognizes its enemies in Russia it might as well recognize its enemies at home, and turn them loose to continue their agitation against it. The American people, however, are against both propositions.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

"Hurrah for Bergdoll! He escaped the clutches of the unconstitutional conscription and espionage law."

Such is a sentence taken from a letter received from an American woman. It is worth a moment's contemplation for the state of mind that it reveals. One wonders instinctively how general is the spirit of disloyalty thus expressed; wonders from what inspiration it springs.

HENRY JAMES

Bergdoll ran away because, although a native of this country, he was alien at heart, and a traitor to the bottom of his soul. The Bergdoll money was made in the United States. In time of war the Bergdoll sympathy was all with the enemy.

Young Bergdoll never was of any account. He was the typically offensive rich loafer, a nuisance and a pest. As a lad he had been accustomed to arrest for driving his automobile at brutal speed. Later, this machine was too slow, and he tried aviation.

While he stays abroad there perhaps is no utility in bothering about him. If ever he should try to enter the land of which he is unworthy, he belongs in jail; and will be quite welcome to believe, along with his admiring friends, that the law putting him there is unconstitutional.

In the diminishing tax receipts of the government there is evidence a plenty that many whose payments should be high, are sidestepping altogether.

There seems to be no particular reason why congress should not take up this important matter and do something about it.

An interesting action at law is that brought by a mother, based on the allegation that whisky sold to her young son resulted in his death. If she is able to substantiate the charges, the hope that she shall recover the full amount asked, will be general.

Much of the stuff sold as whisky is poison, and known by the hawkers of it, to be poison. They understand that the effect may be fatal, or that it may destroy the sight of the consumer. They do not appear to be reluctant to sell it despite this knowledge of its character. To slay with the content of a bottle is murder as truly as would be any other type of wanton slaughter.

Seldom has there been more printed concerning a crime than has appeared in relation to a New Jersey tragedy. In this the known principals were the Rev. Edward Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Mills. Both of them were murdered. The circumstances were such as to bring only a few persons under suspicion. These were persons who had reasons for wishing to get rid of a highly unsavory pair. However, the act was so deliberate and brutal that a plea of unwritten law would have had a hard time to get by.

The authorities have dismissed the case as beyond solution. The general belief is that there were reasons why they did not wish to solve it; although this may do them a wrong, for stupidity, too, is a possible explanation.

A suit brought by one picture producing concern against another mentions the impressive figure of $6,000,000 as the sum of damages desired. The claim is set up that the defendant company is conspiring ot control the entire industry.

The merits fo the case, of course, are unknown to the public. The desire to establish a monopoly does not indicate any unusual tendency. A monopoly may be good or it may be bad. On general principles, however, popular opinion is likely to be opposed to having pictures controlled by any group.

The same day that a colored trooper was killed while trying to run whisky across the Mexican border, a Mexican experienced a similar fate in the effort to run a $6 shirt across.

There will be no sympathy for the trooper, but the poor Mexican, seeking to avoid the payment of a trifling duty, probably was ignorant as to the utility of the tariff.

The glands of a man about to be hanged were offered for sale to the highest bidder. Possibly they were a fine set of glands, but they do not seem to have done the owner much good.

Grafting the glands of a murderer upon human tissue does not strike the observer as a pleasing experiment.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

We've had Mrs. Pilgrim's elder sister visiting us. A fine woman. She was good looking when she was young, and she married the best bass singer in town and thereupon developed an extraordinary business talent—she had to do it; else the bass singing family would have starved to death—and lately has been engaged in semi-public work and earned bushels of encomiums. So her head has swelled. Not much, perhaps. But one must treat her with great care lest she blow up.

"John Tompkins can treat me that way," she announced yesterday. "He mustn't think that I'm a boob. I'll tell him what's what."

John, poor lad, had given the lady sister-in-law the wrong price on a property she wanted to buy. He had done it innocently, as was obvious enough when she told the story. That same day the lady sister-in-law learned that a friend had been given a much lower price on the same property by one of John's associates. Hence the infuriated yowls.

"He can't do that to me," she said.

The trouble wasn't with John so much, though that sort of thing doesn't lead one to admire his business qualifications, as with my lady sister-in-law. Her ego was inflated like a dime balloon. She has lost sight entirely of the main issue, which was that she had been misinformed, and went to war because she felt she had been insulted. She jumped to the conclusion that John, poor fish, had marked her intellect too low.

"I'll show him," she said. "You may be a pair of poor-spirited people, but he cannot get away with that with me."

So I interfered. I told her that the first rule in every incident of life is to keep your shirt on. We would investigate, I said. If John were innocent, as I believed him to be, he would be terribly humiliated. If guilty, then he had scratched himself off our list of friends. But we must not find him guilty until we had tried him.

"I'll show him," said the lady sister-in-law, beginning her tiresome yawp again. "He can't do that to me——"

So I told her to go back to her bass singer. I didn't propose to have her spoiled disposition getting in between me and my friends. It was a reckless defiance of Mrs. Pilgrim, but I did it and I'm glad of it. For the lady sister-in-law suddenly came down. She cried a little, but she'll be a pleasant relative from now on.

DO YOU ENJOY HUNTING OR FISHING? DO YOU KNOW WHERE TO GO AFTER DECIDING TO 'BUMP OFF A FEW?'

The Very Latest Information Regarding the Sporting Places in Various Outlying Counties Is Given by the Auto Club

Here are a few tips for the fishing and hunting "bug." There are a lot of sporting places in and around Los Angeles, but if the outer wants other worlds to conquer, let him go a little farther from home. For the benefit of the readers of the Glendale Press Saturday Pink, the Auto Club of Southern California has prepared the following information with regard to the hunting and fishing points in San Bernardino, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo and Kern counties and Owens valley:

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY

BIG BEAR AND BALDWIN LAKES—Not much doing on Big Bear lake, but Baldwin lake is good. The canvasback, redheads and bluebills are just arriving. Good bags were made the past week, and good shooting should be had from now until the lake freezes.

The Tavern, Bartlett's Camp, Knight's Camp and Mrs. Bob Belts' will all keep open this winter.

Bob Belts' Duck Lodge, on Baldwin lake, is fitted up to give the duck hunters a lot of comfort when they return from a shoot on this cold body of water. Here good meals are served at all hours. A good big lounging-room with a roaring fire, good beds in a neat, clean, warm bunkhouse. Mrs. Belt has 35 boats. Rates, $2.00 per day per boat. Beds, $1.50; meals a-la-carte. Warm clothing is necessary here.

KNIGHT'S CAMP—Have 80 boats on Baldwin lake. Rates $2 per day per boat. Accommodations for 10 men; rates $5.50 each per day. American plan.

VENTURA COUNTY

Duck shooting has been fair at Point Magu lagoon. Hunters have been averaging about 10 ducks each a day.

At mouth of Santa Clara river few ducks shot early in morning and late in evening. Quail are in fair numbers in Conejo, Simi, Fillmore, Santa Ana and Upper Ojai valleys.

Good smelt fishing from pier at Hueneme. Good surf fishing from Point Magu to Ventura.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY

Duck shooting on Goleta Slough poor, and at mouth of Santa Ynez fair. Quail shooting northeast of Lompoc should be good. Large covey in this district.

Surf fishing between Santa Barbara and Ventura is fair. Fair pier fishing at Santa Barbara. Mussels, abalones and lobsters are plentiful at Santa Cruz Island.

SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY

Morrow bay has furnished good duck shooting the past week. Large ducks are beginning to come in. Boats may be rented here and a good camp ground is maintained. Furnished tents may be rented. Pismo clams are plentiful here.

Good quail shooting may be had north of Cayucos and in hills from here to Paso Robles. Many large coveys of quail in hills between Templeton and San Maguel.

Pier fishing good at Aliva and Cuyacos. Abalones may be taken between Cambria and San Simeon and along rocky coast at Morrow. Pismo clams at Pismo, Oceano and Morrow. Rabbits plentiful all over country.

KERN COUNTY

BUENA VISTA LAKE—Duck shooting good past week. Shooting here from blinds, boats and tanks over decoys.

BUCKHORN TAVERN—Accommodations for 16 men. Beds $1 per night. Twenty boats $1.50 per boat. Dinner $1.50. Reservations should be made several days in advance. Address Buckhorn Tavern, Taft. Attention Mr. Buck.

C. E. WHITNEY has 16 boats and charges $1 per day per boat. Can sleep six men at $1 per night each. No meals served.

MR. LOVEALL has eight tanks which are placed in pairs; 50 decoys are placed in front of each pair of tanks. $5.00 per day is charged, which includes transportation from the Honolulu Pump station. Reservations should be made several days in advance. Address S. A. Loveall, Box 691, Taft.

The best shooting on Buena Vista lake is confined to the Taft side of the lake.

TULARE LAKE — Fair duck shooting has been had the past week—sprig, widgeon and teal—weather has been too mild for good duck shooting.

LOS BANOS, NEWMAN AND GUSTINE—Fair duck shooting has been had outside of the gun clubs. Will be good just as soon as northern birds arrive. Need rain.

OWENS VALLEY

BISHOP DISTRICT—Duck shooting in Long valley only fair. Weather has been too mild for good duck shooting. November is generally good here.

INDEPENDENCE — Fair duck shooting was had the past week along Owens river. This is good when cold weather arrives.

OWENS LAKE—Few spoonbills and teal; weather too mild so far this season.

Motor Sales in Spain Very Good

The automotive division of the Department of Commerce reports that in keeping with incoming reports that motor sales have been very good in Spain, that country imported 239 passenger cars and 62 trucks from the United States during June, as compared with 141 passenger cars and three trucks during the previous month.

CARBURETOR BEING GIVEN MORE ATTENTION

Carburetion is requiring more and more attention not only by the engineers at the factory but by the men who are taking care of the cars already in use.

Unfortunately, the carburetor is a thing of mystery to most mechanics and is, therefore, the part of the mechanism that is blamed for most troubles. There is considerable excuse for this as many of the carburetors on the older cars and on some of the new ones have delicate adjusting screws, or springs, or valves that are easily thrown out of adjustment by the vibration of the motor. Consequently the mechanic can hardly be blamed for suspecting trouble in the carburetor when so many of them are so easily thrown out of adjustment.

But there is another feature which is probably more unfortunate than this, and that is that so many troubles can be buried by carburetor adjustment and as a consequence Mr. Motorist drives out with two troubles when he drove in with only one. Nobody is to blame for this because the symptoms are the same whether the trouble is cured or only buried, but in the latter case both troubles show up later on.

There is only one perfect mixture and this is to have enough air to burn all the gasoline and enough gasoline to use up all the air. Any variation from this means an excess of air which is damaging to the motor or an excess of gasoline which is expensive.

Many motorists and some garage men think that the motor needs a rich mixture at low speeds and a lean mixture at high speeds. They think this because as suction increases the flow of gasoline increases faster than the flow of air unless the carburetor is the full automatic type. On the semi-automatic type it requires that the carburetor be "leaned" by opening up an air valve or by turning down a gasoline needle—but as a matter of fact, you are not making it leaner, you are keeping it from growing richer.

THE NEW SPONGE

Inspect a new sponge carefully before using it on the car and make sure that all sand and shells have been removed, as they will scratch the varnish badly. The sponge should be previously softened by soaking in soapy water, during which operation it should be squeezed a number of times to remove foreign matter.

SPEED LIMITS ARE DEFINED BY AUTO CLUB

It is all wrong for motorists to think that the speed limit on country roads in all "open" territory is 35 miles an hour.

This, and some other funny ideas about the California speed limits is getting hundreds of autoists into trouble with the law, say officials of the Auto Club of Southern California.

Outside of business and residence districts, the maximum speed limit on public highways in this state at night is 30 miles per hour always, and without any exception. In the daytime, the limit is also 30 miles an hour, but with certain exceptions, points out the Auto club legal department.

Under the day-time exception, it is lawful to travel over 30, but not to exceed 35 miles an hour on an open road where there are no intersecting highways on either side and where the motorist has a clear view ahead for 400 feet, and there is no person, vehicle or other object visible in this distance—then you can go 35 miles per hour.

If one outomobile is traveling 30 miles an hour, it is unlawful for a second automobile to overtake and pass the first automobile. It is very seldom that motorists find conditions just as prescribed by the law of "daylight exceptions" and so, point out the Automobile club officials, it is very seldom that it is ever legal to travel as high as 35 miles per hour.

Paste this in your hat, Mr. Motorist, and don't complain if you are arrested for exceeding the state speed limit, for you are supposed to know just what the club here tells you.

AUTO FEATURES ARE NEEDED, IS CLAIM

A great many motorists have formed the opinion that the various and sundry "safety" accessories now on the market are, in a large measure, unnecessary. This is really not the case. While some of of them may not be considered as absolutely essential, nevertheless, they all play their part in both the safety of the automobile and its driver.

Some accessories are so necessary, in fact, that they are required by law. Among these are the safety lens for the headlights and the warning signal. That safety lenses are necessary goes without saying—any motorist who has ever driven his car at night realizes the advantages of a headlight that, while thoroughly lighting the road, does not blind the drivers of approaching cars.

A good warning signal, one that is reliable and can be depended upon to give a clear, unmistakable warning at all times, could not even if the law permitted, be dispensed with. The motor driven horn or the whistle signal are the most reliable warning signals that can be obtained.

With these two accessories the car can be driven in compliance with the law, but what of the other safety accessories that are so necessary as to become almost necessities?

The reliable bumper that protects the front and rear of the car against collision is a safeguard so well known that the insurance companies recognize it to the extent that cars so equipped are insured at a lower rate than others.

The fire extinguisher also is recommended by the insurance companies and plays its part in the insurance problems.

Tire chains are a necessity when driving in wet weather as is the windshield wiper that allows clear view of the road ahead.

Possibly one of the necessary and considerate safety appliances is the stop signal that works automatically and lets the fellow behind know when you are going to slow down or stop. The windshield visor is also a mighty convenient article of equipment to have, removing as it does the menace of glaring headlights and brilliant sunlight responsible for so many accidents.

Any motorist who drives at night appreciates the convenience and additional margin of safety occasioned by a spot light that picks out the sign posts, ditches and bad spots in the road.

"A factor of safety that prevents many accidents are the step plates that attach to the running board and prevent slipping when entering or alighting from car," says Hal Baker, sales manager of the Western Auto Supply company.

"If everyone was a careful driver and obeyed all the traffic rules there would be no necessity for a rear view mirror, but they come in mighty handy nowadays when so many motorists try to pass each other on the road without the formality of sounding their horns.

"All of the accessories mentioned in this article play an important part in the safety of the automobile and its driver. They are not all absolutely essential, it's true, and many motorists feel that they are competent to drive their cars without them. I grant this, but there is always this fact before us."

OLD TIRES ARE JUNKED

Old tires usually are sold by the pound and may be disposed of through the dealers or junk dealers.

LEGISLATION MEET TO BE HELD SOON

Thirty-four well-known California automobile men have been named by Director C. J. Chenu of the State Motor Vehicle department as members of the executive committee authorized at a recent conference here to draft proposed amendments to the Motor Vehicle law.

This committee will meet in San Francisco at Hotel Whitcome, November 28, at which time amendments will be considered, and drafted in the form of a report to be submitted at a second great conference to be held in this city some time early in December.

Presidents of the two automobile clubs, the Automobile Club of Southern California and the California State Automobile association, have been named members of the executive committee, despite their refusal to participate in the initial conference.

In naming them Chenu says he did so because he believes they are vitally interested in proposed changes in the law, and because he wants all factions to have an equal chance to be heard, so as to avoid, if possible, disputes before the legislature that might result disastrously for all concerned.

In 1921 various factions engaged in heated disputes at the legislature, and lost all proposed legislation, good and bad, and the director now hopes to evade a repetition of such disputes, and present a solid front to the legislature. He has announced as a keynote of this proposal that so far as he is concerned, no proposal shall be made that will increase the already great burden of taxes imposed upon owners of motor vehicles used for pleasure purposes.

CARS ON HIGHWAYS INCREASE IN NUMBERS

Pessimists and knockers and members of the Ancient Order of Gloom got a jolt when the 1922 automobile registration figures for the United States came out.

Despite generally adverse business conditions and the fact that thousands of cars have gone out of service, the people of this country own 1,428,773 more automobiles and trucks now than they did a year ago, an increase of 15 per cent.

It means just two things—one that this country is a long way from being broke and, too, that automobiles are not regarded by the people of this country as a luxury to be bought only in flush times.

As a matter of fact, Americans bought within the past 12 months as many cars as the rest of the world owns altogether. Statisticians figure that there are about 12,800,000 cars running in the world, all of which but about 2,000,000 are owned in this country.

Great Britain has about 497,000 cars, Canada 463,000, France 236,000, Germany 91,000, and the next one down the list is Argentine with 75,000.

There are only 12 states, figures show, out of the 45 in this country, which do not own more cars than Argentine.

This state alone, with a registration of 737,152, owns more cars than any foreign country in the world.

AUTO DRIVERS ARE MENACED BY SIGNS

Protests against the defacement of highways by unsightly road sign billboards are being received at national headquarters of the American Automobile association almost daily. According to A. A. A. officials, there seems to be a great and crying movement against the use of these billboards among the membership of the A. A. A. in every part of the country.

"I believe that the road sign billboard should be abolished," said President George C. Diehl of the A. A. A. "These signs serve as a distinct menace to motorists, especially when they are placed, as many of them are, at a sharp curve or a road intersection.

"The day of the billboard and the need of such methods of advertising is past. The class of people who use the highways and to whom such signs presumably appeal are a class that read the newspapers and magazines, and who are governed largely in their purchases by the advertisements of reliable products advertised in a reliable newspaper or magazine."

CLEANING THE RADIATOR

Cleaning the cooling system is not a difficult job. Take two pounds of washing soda and dissolve it in hot water. Pour into the radiator, being careful to remove all foreign matter by straining through cheesecloth. Run the car as usual all day and allow the solution to remain 24 hours. Drain the next morning and fill with fresh water. Change the water again every day for two or three days to thoroughly remove all traces of the soda.

MORE AUTOS ARE REGISTERED IN 1923

All motor car registration records for the United States will be broken by California this year, according to a report just issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

There are approximately 837,000 autos registered in the state at the present time, the majority of which are in the southern and central counties.

On January 1 the state of New York had registered only 812,031. The increase of cars registered this year in California over the registration of last year and the year preceding is about thirty per cent, which is greater than that ever achieved by any state in America.

According to automobile club officials there is every indication that auto registrations in California this year will bring the state up to second place, with a possibility of ranking first in the number of automobiles in use here.

Last year California was led by New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania but from the rapid increase of cars here it is likely, says the club, that California will lead both Ohio and Pennsylvania.

At the end of last year there were only 673,830 autos in the state. This year there are 163,362 more cars than that here. The increase for the entire year of 1921 was only 104,938, which shows, it is pointed out, the tremendous strides taken in the use of motor cars in California.

Southern California leads the entire state, says the Auto Club, in the ownership of automobiles.

Good Roads to Protect Farm Homes

Dallas county, Texas, has made it possible for its rural districts to obtain protection from the fire department in Dallas through the construction of modern hard-surfaced highways. A contract executed recently between the Dallas city commission and the county commissioners provides for fire protection to farmers on all paved roads within a radius of 15 miles of Dallas. When a farm house or barn along a paved road catches fire all the farmer has to do is to telephone the Dallas department and it will respond at 40 to 50 miles an hour with a chemical engine or a steamer, as occasion may warrant.

Prickly Pear "Sub" Is Sure a Winner

A gasoline substitute made from prickly pear juice is the product of a South African inventor, American Commissioner Stevenson reported to Secretary Hoover.

The new motor fuel has been tested and proved successful on various grades of cars, Stevenson said.

"The new fuel is noncorrosive and odorless and equal to or better than gasoline in power and flexibility. A mileage of 22 miles to the gallon was obtained on a six-cylinder car. No special carburetor adjustments are necessary."

American Makers Ship to Africa

Passenger car imports into the Union of South Africa for the first half of 1922 were very good, considering the general economic conditions that have prevailed since the first of the year. Whereas, in the whole year 1921 only 802 American passenger cars were imported, 854 were imported in the first six months of 1922, and 421 of them in May and June.

Imports of Canadian cars in the first six months of this year were 959, compared with 1,010 in all of last year. Combining the two, we find 94.03 per cent of the entire imports were of American origin, as compared with 87 per cent in 1921.

Testing Rear Drive for Slack

The slack or backlash in the rear drive of a car is tested by merely jacking up each rear wheel, placing the car in gear, and turning the wheels as far as they will go. At the tread of the tires each wheel ought to move through an arc of about an inch. If it moves through a greater arc, either the universals are worn or the pinion gear needs to be meshed closer. The wheels may also be loose on the axles. Each wheel is jacked up independently, with the opposite one on the ground, so as to eliminate consideration of the differential.

AUTO CLUB S JAIL RECKLES DRIVERS

Jain sentences for serious tions of the state laws gov motor vehicles is the suggest ing made at this time by th lic safety department of the mobile Club of Southern Cali

Reckless auto drivers are guilty of public offense as pockets or burglars, says th club, and they should not any more consideration. would people think if burglar regularly dismissed from the with a small fine? This is the club wants to know.

But, according to club of 92 per cent of the motori this part of the state are drivers, and only eight per ce reckless. The club wants t tect the majority from th deeds of the minority.

Some Short Cuts for Auto Owners

Frequent washings dull the finish of a car.

A neglected battery cannot be restored to its original life.

"Slipping" the clutch scorches and hardens the leather on the cone.

Corroded terminals are one of the most frequent causes of ignition trouble.

A car can be made to look like new by having it varnished every six months.

When starting the motor never flood the carburetor by working the choker too much.

More value for the money is given today in motor vehicles than at any previous time in the business.

Never attempt to turn the front wheels by the steering gear while the car is standing still, unless some one helps by pushing the wheels.

CARE OF TIRE CHAINS

When the slightest sign of wear appears on the side lengths of tire chains, where the cross grips join on, move them all upon or down one link. In this way the side piece will last several years longer.

Many Laws to Be Revised by Legislature

Legislatures of 42 states in the Union are to revise and establish new motor vehicle laws next year. Among the drafts to be considered are: The Federal Aid Law, the question of theft prevention, motor car registration, legislation controlling headlights, automatic signals, taxes and fees in the operation of motor vehicles, etc.

Melbourne Now Uses New Rail Motor Cars

The Victorian railway department of Melbourne has adopted the rail motor-car to handle passenger traffic on short spur lines and over other sections where it is uneconomical to provide a service of steam trains.

BIG AUTOMOBILE BANK

A $500,000 automobile bank and warehouse is planned in Chicago, Ill. The unique institution will be a 16-story building, the ground floor to be used for a motor banking business, and the upper floors for the storage of new cars by firms in the city. Dealers and manufacturers may store their automobiles in the building and borrow money on warehouse certificates.

CADILLAC PRICES CUT ON ALL MODELS

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 2.—The Cadillac Motor Car company today announced a reduction of $265 on its touring car and also reductions on its complete line of 10 type 61 models, which will be continued on an increased production schedule for 1923. The new price of the touring car represents reductions amounting to $105 on this model in the last eleven months. Prices become effective December 1.

H. H. Rice, president and general manager of the company issued the following statement regarding the reductions:

"The new prices are mainly the result of the large production and sales of the type 61 Cadillac during the last year, in which we have already sold more Cadillacs than in the best previous record year.

"The type 61 Cadillac proved so popular during this last year that we were forced time and aagin to revise upward our production schedule to meet the demand.

"The new prices are based on an even larger production schedule for 1923 than the record high production mark of last year and on the many economies in manufacturing made possible by our new factory."

Beware of Beautiful Woman With Bandits

Beware the feminine decoy of the motor bandit. A recent police complaint reveals a new way of inducing an affluent looking motorist to stop. A pretty woman lies by the wayside and signals for help. The "man behind the gun" remains concealed nearby until he has the drop on his victim. Then while the "collection" is being taken up, the pretty wayfarer smilingly thanks the unlucky motorist for his "kind assistance."

CLEAN GLASS

The best and easiest way to clean the windshield is to wipe it off with a wet chamois and rub dry with a clean cloth. A little kerosene in the water will help if the glass is very dirty. This method of cleaning glass is to be recommended for closed cars, as it does not scratch.

Removing Dents From Fenders

Use a leather mallet, or an ordinary hammer with the head covered with a number of thicknesses of cloth, when straightening out dents in fenders. Beneath the fender a block of wood should be placed, cut to snugly fit the curve of the metal. A bag filled with sand is sometimes used as a cushion.

Field Heiress Changes Mind About U. S. Men; Will Wed Englishman

Two years ago when last in Chicago, Miss Gwendolyn Field, granddaughter of the late Marshall Feld and sister of the present head of the family, Captain Marshall Field, said she would "probably marry an American." Now comes from London the announcement of her engagement to Charles Edmonstone, son of Sir Archibald Edmonstone of Glasgow. Miss Field, who is only twenty, is living in London with her aunt and uncle, Earl and Countess' Beatty. She has spent most of her time in Europe, getting in 1920 her first glimpse of Chicago since early childhood.

PIUTE PASS OPEN SOON

The highest automobile highway and pass in California will be open soon, when the remaining 32 miles of the Piute Pass highway will have been completed.

The altitude is 11,049. A committee has been named to arrange for the completion.

WHY POWER IS LACKING

Lack of power is due probably to loss of compression. If the cylinders are badly worn or the rings fit poorly, the loss of power will be noticeable. Other causes of loss of power are too late a spark, a bad mixture, weak ignition, etc.

VALVE MUST BE CLOSED

A valve must be closed when the adjustment is made. A pressure gauge indicates the pressure of oil in the pump or the line, depending on the design of engine or oiling system.

The under dog doesn't care much for sympathy; he wants assistance.

MORE CARS NEEDED SAYS DORT AGENT

A coast to coast survey by executives of the Dort Motor Car company has led to the conclusion that the 1923 task of the automobile industry is to produce enough cars to supply the demand, according to word received by Sunset Motor company of East Colorado, local Dort dealers.

J. Dallas Dort, president of the Dort Motor Car company; Jno. D. Mansfield, general sales manager; Sam C. Mitchell, special sales representative; Wesley Buck, sales engineer, and seven other executives, have just completed business trips that took Dort executives from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Dort executives believe, as a result of their survey, that the country's ability and desire to buy automobiles has never been greater. The Dort company itself has been forced to increase production schedules substantially in both its Flint and Kalamazoo plants in order to satisfy the demand for the new Dort Six.

Other established manufacturers of popular priced cars are confronted with a similar situation, according to the message from Dort executives, who, as manufacturers of six-cylinder cars in the less-than-thousand dollar class and four-cylinder cars in the less-than-$900 class, confined their observations to the demands for standard low-priced cars of proven merit.

'Shimmy Machine" on U. S. Liners gives Hope to Fat Folk Seeking reduction

The "Shimmy Machine" in action.

New York Every woman, whether she be fly-weight sylph or double-chinned enchantress, is more worried over increasing avoirdupois than any other problem that besets her days. Women travelers on the vessels of the United States Lines fleet have made an amazing, and at the same time practical discovery. They have found what they claim to be a sure method for the taking off of superfluous flesh. And, it might be stated, men jealous of their figures are making use of the new discovery.

In the gymnasiums of the steamships George Washington and America there has recently been installed two exercising machines which furnish solace and gleaming hope to stout folk. The apparatus has become known as the "shimmy machine" because of the gyrations through which the user of the contrivance is put when in the grip of the flesh reducer. The principle of the mechanism is that of vibration. A canvas girdle encircling the midrift section of the seeker after slimness is attached to an oscillating device, and when the electric power is applied the patient is shaken in a manner that is fearsomely fat defying. The shaking of a mouse by a cat is a mild comparison. The "shimmy machine" is capable of shaking a mountain of fat with the ease of a strenuous housewife shaking a plate of jelly.

A short time ago a stout man took passage on the steamship America and seeking out the gymnasium attendant informed him that he was under orders from his physician to reduce himself sixty pounds. The stout man said that the doctor had told him that unless he made good in reducing that he might notify the undertaker. The gymnasium attendant said the "shimmy machine" would do the trick and immediately started work on the fat man. The fat man made a round trip to Braemen, Germany on the America and every day for several hours he was held in the embrace of the "shimmy machine."

Late each afternoon, following his session with the "shimmy machine," the fat man would step on the scales in the presence of a crowd of passengers and each day saw a decrease in weight. The fat man literally shimmied his way across the Atlantic and after five days in Germany he returned to the ship to continue his training and when the port of New York was finally reached he had lost the sixty pounds necessary to the saving of his life. Thereafter the "shimmy machine" became the vogue not only on the steamship America but the big liner George Washington.

It is the women travelers who are making the most of the new innovation and during the trip across and back the fair sex seem to dominate the gymnasium of the two big liners. The gymnasium attendants have a regular course for their patients and those who folow instructions claim to get results. After the "shimmy machine" session and a shower the seekers after reduction go for long walks around the decks and then visit the scales to visualize the results of their efforts.

OLDSMOBILE FEAT ON 'SLIPPER FORD' GRADE IS RECORD

Talking about the power of different cars, C. H. Hunter of the Oldsmobile agency, 208-10 West Broadway, recalled some of the feats of the Oldsmobile "four" when it was introduced just two years ago this month. One of the hills that the Olds "four" conquered in high gear, carrying five grown people, was the side of Second street hill, Los Angeles, where the new tunnel is being constructed. Mr. Hunter recalls that twelve years ago, when he first came to Los Angeles, the automobile companies were using second street as a demonstrating hill, and it was a good car that could make it in low gear. He states that he saw many a car backing up the hill so that the gas could reach the carburetor and that he never dreamed at that time that he would someday drive a car over the back of Second street hill in high gear.

A short time later the Oldsmobile "four" carried 15 grown people over Cahuenga pass, Hollywood, in high gear, finishing at 21 miles an hour. A litle later the same car carried eleven grown people over Hollywood mountain grade entering Griffith park. The dealers around California started to climb the different test hills in their territory with large loads. Among them J. C. Pollock carried nine grown people over School st. hill, near Sunland. The Ocean Park dealer carried nine over Topanga canyon hill. To cap it all, the Sacramento dealer put an Oldsmobile "four" over the Slipper Ford grade between Sacramento and Reno, Nevada. Never before has any make of car pulled this hill in high gear, and although it has been tried by other cars since, the Oldsmobile still holds the record.

Since these many feats have been performed the Oldsmobile has been improved in many respects, and is a better puller than ever. Perhaps you have gone over some of the hills mentioned, and know that they are real hills.

ASSOCIATED GAS ENTERS SO. CAL. RETAIL FIELD

Green and Red Trucks Soon to Be Familiar Sight

The green and red gasoline trucks of the Associated Oil company will soon be a familiar sight in Southern California. This company is just beginning the distribution of the Associated Gasoline here.

The company maintains offices in the Pacific Electric building at Los Angeles and has always had extensive interests in Southern California. It has a large plant investment in San Pedro, a big distributing station at Burbank and other properties in the south which are being expanded rapidly.

The Associated Oil company has been a foremost factor among big oil companies on the Pacific coast for nearly a quarter of a century. Many of its stockholders live in Southern California. It owns vast oil properties, has its own refineries, with over 700 miles of pipe lines and a fleet of modern tankers. The company has branch offices and representatives throughout California, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Arizona and Utah, in which territories its products—including Cycol Motor Oil and Associated Gasoline—are widely sold.

Associated Gasoline is now available to Southern California motorists for the first time and already the flashy Associated signs are appearing on billboards, in the newspapers and in front of leading garages and service stations.

FIGHT OVER DRAFT IS ON AGAIN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Once again the draft will be one of the big issues when the major league owners and the minor league magnates get together in their annual winter sessions.

Naturally the major league owners want to get the pick of the minors for $7500 at the close of each season and obviously the little fellows want to get $175,000 if their product is high class.

That is the whole argument in the draft.

The Pacific Coast league, the American association and the International league have been able to defeat all the moves made by the majors to force them to agree to a modified form of the draft.

As far as the Pacific Coast league is concerned, it already has voted against any restoration of the draft. In the past two years the Coast magnates have been paid close to a half-million dollars for players and they want to continue having an open market for their players.

The American association is not so vitally interested, excepting in the moral effect that it might have in holding up the prestige of the minors. The association hasn't been developing players for several years.

Since Jack Dunn has agreed to and has started breaking up his powerful Baltimore club, the International league may not desert the ranks of the anti-drafts, as was threatened last summer.

Peeved because of the slump in business caused by Baltimore's annual feat of running away with the pennant, the league met in special session and warned Dunn if he didn't break up his team, they would vote to restore the draft.

Baltimore has sold Bentley to the Giants but the other stars are still in the fold and if Dunn doesn't show that he has plans for disposing of them, the International probably will pull away from the "Big Three."

* * * * * * *

Unless Commissioner Landis has developed plans for an amicable settlement of the controversy, a major-minor war may develop at the meetings.

Charley Ebbets, the owner of the Brooklyn club, who would like to have the draft price reduced to $7.50 instead of $750, wanted the majors to boycott the minors last year, but it was learned that some of the magnates feared they would have to class Ebbets' team as one of the minors and they wanted to retain his friendship.

Ban Johnson, the American league president, has been doing a lot of talking out in the west about bombs that he is going to throw, etc. Perhaps he has a piece of H. E. that will blast the minors out of their dugouts.

Johnson's campaign, however, seems to be against Commissioner Landis and if they ever do go to it out in the open it will be an interesting bout to watch.

Johnson no doubt could recruit some allies among the American league club owners if he went out to "get" Landis, but he wouldn't get much help among the National league magnates.

The American league boss is still said to be suffering from the wounds sustained when Commissioner Landis had the audacity to hold up the purse for the tie game of the world's series and dispose of it without saying a word to him or John Heydler, the National league proxy.

MAXWELL CLOSED MODELS SUCCEED IN COMPETITION

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 2. — For the past year Maxwell closed models have held an exceptionally strong position in a market ruled by intense competition. Several times it was found necessary to increase production materially in the company's large body plants in Dayton, O. And recently additions were made in the Dayton properties which permitted the Maxwell organization to shoot at a manufacturing schedule that would more closely conform to the steady and insistent buying demand. The present high closed-car output is the direct result of the greatly expanded resources for fine closed-car manufacture, it is pointed out by Arthur E. Barker, vice-president of the company, but even with this tremendous schedule it has been found necessary to make further increases, and in the past week the Maxwell factories have been in operation nights as well as days.

The new Maxwell club coupe will be shown this week in the salesroom of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Newton and daughter Myrtle of San Diego, came up to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Newton's brother, R. W. Bolton of 422 East Harvard street, and are remaining over for the week-end.

Many to Attend Good Roads Meeting

With an organization that promises to be 100 per cent effective in perfecting arrangements now under way, the Thirteenth American Good Roads Congress and Fourteenth National Good Roads Show to be held in Chicago January 15 to 19 next, will by far eclipse in program and attendance any good roads meeting in the world. Both events will be held under the auspices of the American Road Builders' association, the largest and oldest good roads organization in the country.

Road builders to the number of 11,000 will hold their twentieth annual convention in Chicago during the congress. Many prominent speakers will attend, including high officials of the federal government, several governors, hundreds of state highway officials and mayors of American and Canadian cities, as well as thousands of engineers, contractors and good roads enthusiasts.

INNOVATION IN CESSPOOLS HERE

The property owner who puts in a cesspool is looking for anything that will give the best results, and from all appearances and statements from those in a position to know the Circular Concrete Mfg. Co., with offices at 610 East Broadway, has a proposition that should be carefully investigated by those desiring to get the best and most economical in this line.

This firm has the circular concrete blocks, which are perforated just enough to take care of the sewage and give the best results. As for wearing qualities, it is stated that the blocks grow harder with age, which means they will last a lifetime. "It requires about an hour to lay the blocks after the cesspool is ready," said a representative of the firm, "and we can save property owners money on every cesspool they put in." Read the firm's advertisement elsewhere and investigate their proposition and save money, and also get the best.
